

Johnson Says He Won't Run

An Editorial 'I Shall Not Seek and I Will Not Accept—'

President Johnson's unexpected announcement that he would not seek or accept the nomination of his party for another term in the White House is only one of many political surprises this unusual spring. Governor Romney's withdrawal before a single primary, Senator McCarthy's strong showing in New Hampshire, the twin decisions of Senator Kennedy to run and of Governor Rockefeller not to, all have kept the American public off its political balance the last few weeks. But the President's decision could have far greater impact than all the rest put together. He had been completely unable to get great support for his conduct of the war in Asia or efforts to solve domestic problems. There was instead a dangerous rumbling of violence and revolutionary efforts to change those policies outside of the democratic process. Whatever his motives for not seeking the presidency, President Johnson may have come close to uniting the nation behind a sincere search for an honorable end to the war if such unity is not sought at the cost of humiliating political foes. Perhaps for the first time on television, the President's deep and real concern for the directions of the nation came across to the people. And this time it would be well for the leaders in Hanoi to listen to the silence of the bombing pause. There is no doubt about it — President Johnson's speech on Sunday might well go down in history.

60,000 Troop Call-Ups Set Reserves to Go on Active Duty Under Three-Phase Arrangement

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense officials disclosed today the administration is planning a three-phase callup of military reserve forces which would involve the mobilization of around 60,000 men in coming months. Within the next three days the Defense Department will order up at least a few thousand troops to help meet the increase of about 13,500 for the Vietnam war, just authorized by President Johnson. A second phase of reserve call-up is expected later to replace a Marine unit which was dispatched to the war zone recently as an emergency measure following the Communists' Tet holiday offensive. No Exact Figure Defense officials said the replacement of the Marines would involve an unspecified number of Army reservists but gave no exact figure. As an example, however, they mentioned 7,000 to 8,000 men. Then in coming weeks and months, officials said, the administration envisions an additional callup of reserve troops to replenish the nation's strategic reserve force, an active duty manpower pool which is maintained in the United States to meet unforeseen emergencies abroad. Officials said this third stage callup will involve a number not expected to exceed 50,000 men. These would not go to Vietnam. Officials said the exact numbers involved in each of the steps has not been ironed out. President Johnson's latest manpower authorization of 13,500 will increase the American commitment in the war to 549,000, the officials said. Studies now under way indicate that about half the 13,500 will consist of reservists to be ordered up this week. The large bulk will be Army along with some Navy construction units and Air National Guard units. No specific units were listed. Officials indicated that many individuals of the 27th Marine regimental landing team—one of the outfits airlifted to Vietnam in February—will be rotated back to the states. At the same time, the 82nd Airborne Brigade which also went to Vietnam in February will remain.

Johnson to Meet With Thieu in U.S.

CHICAGO (AP) — President Johnson said today he hopes to meet soon in the United States with President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam to "strengthen and improve our plans" for restoring peace and stability in Southeast Asia. Johnson made this disclosure in addressing the National Association of Broadcasters — his first public appearance since dramatically bowing out of 1968 politics. Word that he expects to be host to Thieu "sometime in the weeks ahead" was dropped into his prepared text as he spoke.

President Removes Politics From Effort to Reach Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Lyndon B. Johnson told a stunned America Sunday night that "I shall not seek and I will not accept" nomination for another term in the White House. He later said his decision was "completely irrevocable."

The President voiced his emotion-packed pronouncement in a television-radio address to the nation. Then he met with newsmen in the White House living quarters and sought to dispel any suspicion that he might change his mind or succumb to a draft. To do this, he used the phrase "completely irrevocable." Left unanswered was the question of whether Johnson might try to influence the choice of his successor as Democratic standard-bearer. But his words, taken at face value, suggested a hands-off attitude.

Also up in the air were the plans of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who might join Sens. Robert F. Kennedy of New York and Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota in the 1968 Democratic sweepstakes.

Stunning Move

A man of many surprises, Johnson's announcement was his most stunning move in a 37-year career in politics. No president eligible to succeed himself has spurned a fight for the office since Harry S. Truman bowed out in 1952 during the controversial Korean War. Johnson attributed his decision—which aides said was a year in the making—to controversies rending the nation at this time, including the Vietnam war.

"There is division in the American house now," he said in solemn tones. "There is divisiveness among us all tonight." Then, after appealing to all Americans "to guard against divisiveness and all its ugly consequences," he came to the key passages: "I have concluded that I should not permit the presidency to become involved in the partisan divisions that are developing in this political year. "With America's sons in the fields far away, with America's future under challenge right here at home, with our hopes and the world's hopes for peace in the balance every day, I do not believe that I should devote an hour or a day of my time to any personal partisan causes or to any duties other than the awesome duties of this office."

When the President met with newsmen just before midnight, the questions came quickly: Kennedy a Factor? Was Kennedy's entry into the Democratic primary campaign a factor?

"It added to the general situation I talked about that existed in the country." Did he have a personal choice for the Democratic presidential nomination?

"I made that clear in the speech,"—an apparent allusion to his statement that he had no time for partisan causes.

Would he support any Democratic ticket nominated at the party's August convention?

"When the time comes I'll make my announcements."

Peace Efforts Would his decision strengthen his hand in efforts to end the Vietnam war?

"I would hope what I did tonight will let me concentrate more effectively on bringing about peace in the world."

Besides announcing a partial halt in bombing of North Vietnam, Johnson revealed these other steps related to the war: —The present authorized U.S. troop level there of 525,000 men will be lifted to about 550,000. By August a total of 13,500 support troops will be sent to the combat zone. Some of these will come from Reserve units called to active duty.

War spending is exceeding expectations. Tentative estimates now put the additional amount for the 24 months that began last July 1 at $5.1 billion — money Johnson will have to seek from Congress.

Priority will be given to re-equipping the growing South

Vietnamese army with more modern weapons.

—Ambassador-at-Large W. Averell Harriman will be the President's personal representative at any peace talks that develop with North Vietnam—"at Geneva or any other suitable place."

Johnson also appealed anew for higher taxes and budget cuts to pare a deficit he said would otherwise be about $20 billion. He said these actions are vital because "we face the sharpest financial threat in the post war era—a threat to the American dollar's role as the keystone of international trade and finance."

Unilateral De-escalation

Halt Ordered in Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has ordered a halt in U.S. bombing of most of North Vietnam in a sudden new bid to de-escalate the war in Southeast Asia and get peace talks started in the immediate future.

"I call upon President Ho Chi Minh," Johnson said in announcing his action Sunday night, "to respond positively, and favorably, to this new step toward peace."

He did not say how long the limited cessation of attacks would continue if Ho does not respond favorably. He did say the bomb halt, covering "almost 90 per cent" of North Vietnam's population, could be made complete if Ho would now demonstrate "restraint."

'Genuine Peace'

The President called on Britain and the Soviet Union "to do all they can to move . . . toward genuine peace in Southeast Asia." Officials said those two governments—co-chairmen of the Geneva Conferences—could play key roles in arranging talks. They were notified shortly in advance of Johnson's announcement, and the South Vietnamese government was consulted, officials indicated.

But these informants said no advance assurance of responsive action was obtained from North Vietnam, which presumably was notified by the Soviets.

The move apparently involved some concession in the earlier U.S. position that for bombing to be stopped Hanoi would have to indicate a willingness to de-escalate by leveling off its infiltration of men and supplies into South Vietnam.

Some Concession

However, to accept the President's proposal Hanoi would also have to make some concessions in its position. Its condition for entering peace talks has been that the United States must stop all bombing of the North unconditionally and definitively.

Johnson made clear that air strikes would continue against enemy forces building up in the Southern area of North Vietnam against Khe Sanh and other U.S. allied positions in the northern border region of South Vietnam.

But he said these strikes also "could come to an early end" if North Vietnam would impose "restraint" on its operations.

The President put his proposal this way: "We are prepared to move immediately toward peace through negotiations. So tonight, in the hope that this action will lead to early talks, I am taking the first step to de-escalate the conflict."

'Make No Attacks'

"Tonight, I have ordered our aircraft and our naval vessels to make no attacks on North Vietnam, except in the area north of the demilitarized zone where the continuing enemy buildup directly threatens allied forward positions and where movements of troops and supplies are clearly related to that threat."

"The area in which we are stopping our attacks includes almost 90 per cent of North Vietnam's population, and most of its territory. Thus there will be no attacks around the principal populated areas, or in the food-producing areas of North Vietnam."

Johnson then named Ambassador-at-large W. Averell Harriman to represent him, with the assistance of the U.S. ambassador to Moscow, Llewellyn

Thompson, in any talks that might be arranged at Geneva, Switzerland, "or any other suitable place."

The President did not link his new peace offensive with his bombshell announcement re-moving himself from the presidential election race. But there was immediate Washington speculation that Ho Chi Minh had sent it to Hanoi through diplomatic channels in August.

He said then he would stop the bombing of North Vietnam if se-

Better Terms The question was whether Ho—if he is interested in negotia-

rest without probable cause or deny due process of the law."

The majority with White comprised Chief Justice Earl Warren and Associate Justices Hugo L. Black, William O. Douglas and William J. Brennan Jr.

The dissenters were Associate Justices Harlan Potter Stewart and Abe Fortas. Justice Thurgood Marshall did not participate in the case.

Harland, who has been the court's most outspoken opponent of the "one-man, one-vote" ideology, wrote that: "These adventures of the court in the realm of political science are beyond its constitutional powers."

He said he was "frankly astonished at the ease with which the court has proceeded to fast-ten upon the entire country a strong arm of the federal judiciary, let alone a particular ideology which has been the subject of wide debate and differences from the beginning of our nation."

The ruling extends a step taken by the court four years ago in interpreting the mandate of the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment to the Constitution

It is that in elections for Congress and for state legislatures districts must be drawn so that the vote of citizens is substantially equal in eight

"The question now before us," said White, "is whether the 14th Amendment likewise forbids the election of local government officials from districts of disparate size. As has almost every court which has addressed itself to this question, we hold that it does"

Again, White wrote: "It is now beyond question that a state's political subdivisions must comply with the 14th Amendment. The actions of local government are the actions of the state."

"A city, town, or county may no more deny the equal protection of the laws than it may abridge freedom of speech, establish an official religion, aring he will not seek or accept nomination for another term as president.

McCarthy Challenges Kennedy Primary Loses Impact

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — President Johnson has suddenly stripped Wisconsin's presidential primary of its feature contest, and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy vowed today an all-out effort in campaigns ahead—with Sen. Robert F. Kennedy the rival. Wisconsin votes Tuesday. But with Johnson out of the race for the Democratic presidential nomination, McCarthy said the voters of other states must register the choice, "a different choice," now.

Hard Campaign Indiana, Nebraska, Oregon and California will be the testing grounds, the Minnesota senator said. In those states, McCarthy and Kennedy, a powerful contender with parallel views on Vietnam, meet head on in primaries. McCarthy said he will wage those campaigns "as thoroughly, and as hard and as effectively, as I can."

Out of the contest for the nomination, Johnson is still on the ballot. And his supporters said they would continue an effort to turn out votes for him.

McCarthy, who blazed the trail of opposition to the President in New Hampshire's lead-off primary, said he will forge ahead with his campaign and plans no major changes.

He has already mapped a tentative schedule which will have him campaigning for 15 of the first 22 days in April, devoting much of his attention to the states in which he and Kennedy will contest primaries.

The first of those races is May 7, in Indiana.

"I have not been seeking a knock-down, drag-out battle with him up to this point," McCarthy said. "On the other hand, I have not been seeking an accommodation. So we will proceed between those two dangers."

Presidential contenders Sen. Robert Kennedy, left, and Richard Nixon react to the news that President Johnson will not run for re-election. Both were in New York City, returning from campaign trips. (AP Wirephoto)

The new Mercedes-Benz 250: so "over-engineered" it won't mush, sway or wallow — even on cloverleaf turns.

This "walled-in" turn at the Mercedes-Benz test track is a brutal test of the suspension. Test drive the remarkable new 250 yourself.

On today's high-speed turnpikes, it's easy to forget how fast you're driving. Mentally, you're "velocitized," as one expert put it. So, sometimes you take the off-ramp at a cloverleaf intersection a little faster than you meant to.

You crank away on the steering wheel, but your car tugs straight ahead like a dog straining at the leash. The tires squeal and your passengers squirm. One of life's embarrassing moments.

What "over-engineering" can mean to you

You probably could have avoided the drama if you'd been driving the new Mercedes-Benz 250. It runs rings around most cars. It out-handles and out-maneuvers them to help you avoid anxious moments.

How does Mercedes-Benz make a 4-door sedan with the agility of a sport car? In the words of one critic, the new 250 is "over-engineered."

He's right. And Mercedes-Benz is proud of it. By conventional standards, the new Mercedes-Benz 250 is "over-engineered." It's built to far more exacting standards than ordinary cars.

A patented improvement

The 250's suspension system is patented — one of the more than 5,200 basic engineering patents held by Mercedes-Benz. The engineers simply would not tolerate poor roadholding or a jarring ride.

Their ingenious solution: a pair of anti-sway bars — one in front, one at the back. Without these concealed torsion bars to fight body lean, the suspension's springs would have to be so stiff that the ride would be ruined.

With two anti-sway bars (most cars have one), the 250's suspension is soft enough on a washboard road to absorb annoying jolts. And on a tight turn, it's firm enough to prevent mush and wallow.

A suspension that sacrifices neither ride nor handling is a good example of how "over-engineering" works for you. Here are some more examples:

Check this one out: the new Mercedes-Benz 250 is 2 feet shorter than its domestic rivals, yet gives away nothing in interior room.

A superior braking system

Many ordinary cars still use old-fashioned drum brakes.

Today's 180-mph Grand Prix racing cars use disc brakes. So does the Mercedes-Benz 250. And not just on the front wheels, but on every wheel. Drum brakes are cheaper, but tests prove that disc brakes provide the most precise braking possible — at any speed. So Mercedes-Benz engineers insist on 4-wheel disc brakes as standard equipment. With 421.1 square inches of braking area, it's virtually impossible to outrun the 250's brakes.

10,000 body welds

Most conventional cars have a separate body and chassis, held together with bolts. After a while, the bolts can work loose. On a washboard road, the rattles can be deafening.

Mercedes-Benz eliminated the body bolts. In their place are over 10,000 individual welds. The result is a structure of immense strength and rigidity. After 50,000 miles or so, you may begin to wonder if your 250 will ever rattle.

Overhead-cam engine

Usually, your car's engine is either tuned for power or economy—not both. By employing a sophisticated overhead-camshaft layout borrowed from Mercedes-Benz World Championship sports/racing cars, the engineers were able to improve the engine's volumetric efficiency (its ability to "breathe"). This remarkable engine gives the 250 a top speed comparable to a standard V-8 with the fuel economy of a Six.

"Fatigue-proof" seats

Take a day-long trip in some cars and you'll wind up feeling like a damp washrag. The Mercedes-Benz 250 is engineered as much for human comfort as it is for mechanical efficiency. Orthopedic physicians were consulted in the design of the 250's seats so you'll have proper support on cross-country tours as well as short hops to the supermarket. When you first slip into one of the 250's carefully contoured seats, it may seem firm, but once you get used to it, you'll never settle for "marshmallow" seats again. Mercedes-Benz engineers have respect for your backbone.

These are just a few of the many advanced engineering features of the Mercedes-Benz 250. Taken together, they add up to one conclusion: at $5,060,* this car is one of the shrewdest investments on wheels.

Legislative Costs

The Wisconsin State Legislature is spending considerably more in its work of making the laws under which the state is governed than did preceding legislatures of this state, but the fact does not bother us as much as it appears to worry some of the critics of the institution.

In the first place, the legislature at Madison for many years spent too little, and especially on salaries for its members, which meant that in many localities men and women who were otherwise qualified to serve did not offer themselves because of the monetary sacrifices involved. It is significant, as we see it, that when the Kellett Committee more than a year ago studied the legislative process intensively and concluded that the average member of the legislative branch devotes about one half of his time to his job, and should be paid at the proportionate level of the average department administrator, there was virtually no objection from the body politic. The legislature thereupon adopted the report with no objection from the public that we were able to discern at the time.

Another reason why we view with some skepticism the perennial and selective criticism of legislative compensation is the fact that the Wisconsin policy is in line with a nationwide trend, which the State Legislature's enemies evidently do not know, or more likely, choose to ignore.

LBJ Can't Kick the Habit

At about the same time that President Johnson agreed to negotiate with Congress for an austerity budget in order to get a tax increase, Congressional sources totaled up the number of special messages the White House has sent to Capitol Hill since this session began. From Jan. 17 to March 13, there were 23 such messages, most of them proposing new federal programs or expansion of old ones and also asking for additional spending.

Congressmen are heard muttering to themselves, "If only he'd cut those messages off."

And then the President goes before the AFL-CIO, one of the few groups today where he can be assured of a friendly audience, and says the same things he has been saying for the last three years: "We will do what must be done — we will do it both at home and we will do it wherever our brave men are called upon to stand."

Charity Begins at Home

Some time ago a newspaper in Latin America, stung because of exposes of extreme poverty down there published in American newspapers, sent a reporting team to New York slums. It could have done even more. For in this middle of our most affluent century, statistics of poverty in the United States are stunning.

Dr. H. Jack Geiger, Professor of Preventive Medicine at Tuft University's School of Medicine and co-director of Tuft's Comprehensive Community Health Action Program, points out some of the results of this grinding poverty as far as health is concerned. "The health of the poor in the United States is an ongoing national disaster . . . about one-fifth of all the people in this affluent country live in poverty. The apparent improvement conceals the growing health gap between the poor and rest of the population: in 1940 the infant mortality rate of non-whites was 70 per cent greater than that for whites and in 1962 it was 90 per cent greater . . . the poor are likelier to die sooner and younger than others. Some 50 per cent of poor children are incompletely immunized against smallpox and measles; 64 per cent have never seen a dentist; 45 per cent of mothers delivered in public hospitals have had no prenatal care. For the poor, the risk of dying under age 35 is four times the national average. In Mississippi, the Negro maternity mortality rate is six times the white rate — and 74 per cent of these deaths are due to causes we commonly classify as preventable. . . . There are a number of northern urban ghetto census tracts in which the infant mortality rate exceeds 100 per 1,000 live births."

Dr. Geiger also points up the relationship between health and race which is a further indictment of our failure to end racial discrimination. "The effects of racial

The states of this country are now spending nearly three times as much for legislative salaries and facilities as they were 15 years ago, but that total remains a smaller percentage of total appropriations than in the earlier period.

That is the recent report of the Citizens Conference on State Legislatures.

Precisely the same situation obtains here in Wisconsin. Even with the substantial legislative increase authorized here last year, the rate of expenditure for state services on the whole has accelerated more during the decade than for the legislature. Who is to say that the work of an anonymous bureaucrat in a remote corner of a state office building is more vital to the public welfare than responsible, responsive and conscientious assemblymen and senators?

The Conference report also noted what we regard as an important comparison, namely, that in this country there is now being spent about $27 to support each member of the United States Congress for every dollar represented in the cost of operating a state legislator.

The Conference appropriately noted that "money alone is not the total solution to the problems of the legislatures." But financial support can improve them in ways that will enhance the prospects for better legislation "and to attract more qualified people to run for office."

Rep. Curtis, the Republican from Missouri, pointed out the most damaging aspect of the President's constant and continual calling for expanded domestic programs. "He talks about economy," Curtis said, "but he keeps whetting people's appetites."

The Post-Crescent has always felt that one of the causes of the frustrations felt today by minority groups in the large cities is a direct result of the grandiose picture President Johnson painted of the Great Society and the exaggerated results he predicted from the War on Poverty. Many of these people were led to believe that there was an immediate improvement in the offing in their lives and living conditions.

But the Johnson Administration has been as short on performance as it has been long on promises. And the trouble is that the President simply cannot break the habit.

discrimination and economic disadvantage begin before birth — and never stop. Most Negro expectant mothers simply do not get the basic prenatal care that most white expectant mothers take for granted. Fewer Negro mothers have their babies in hospitals than do white mothers. The national Negro infant mortality rate is almost twice the white rate. Women without prenatal care are three times more likely to give birth to premature babies. Very small premature infants are ten times more likely to be mentally retarded than full term children. Some of the infants who do survive beyond a year . . . are likely to be systematically and chronically malnourished and we are just beginning to explore the contribution of malnutrition to mental retardation."

Dr. Geiger criticizes the hospitals and medical centers but even more the blame must be upon American citizens and their government representatives. We have wisely encouraged birth control information in India and the Philippines but why not more effort in Mississippi? We compassionately send charitable contributions for the desperate children of Korea, Vietnam and the Congo but what of Negro youngsters who get a decent meal only when they attend school and often have not enough clothes to go? As Dr. Geiger's figures show, the apathy and lack of interest among the poor can come in great part because of his poor health beginning before birth. The vicious circle continues with mental retardation, too many children and a constant run-down condition.

We do not need to become isolationist to remember that charity does begin at home. If we are to present to the world the proof that our way of life is by all odds the best for the most people, we must overcome the effects of grinding poverty in the United States.

Post Gives Election Advice

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Post for April 2, 1868.

Tuesday the citizens of Appleton will elect city officers for the ensuing year. We trust that all political animosity existing between individuals will be entirely forgotten.

As a matter of course there will be two sets of candidates for these offices. This, we believe, is proper and right; legitimate opposition is the true principle of life. This opposition, however, should not, under any consideration, be based on party principles.

The enhancement of municipal interests should be the paramount object of every elector of this city. The candidates are not yet in the field; we cannot, therefore, be accused of advocating party measures.

When the candidates are placed in the field, every citizen should select the candidate who has taken the greatest interest in the welfare of our city, whether they be Republican or Democrat. We trust that this is the principle by which every man will be actuated in voting for city officers.

Especially should the position of the mayoralty demand the earnest attention of each voter. The City of Appleton evidently is keeping pace with other cities of the state; for this reason it should have a man at its head who has been in the past and who will be in

Bobby Kennedy Has Out-Smarted Himself Before and He Will Again

If Bobby is running true to form he'll blow it higher than a kite. There are numerous reasons why he should not be President of the United States, God help us, but in addition to these he's so smart-smart that he's stupid. Take a look at the record.

John F. Kennedy needed the Southern votes and chose Lyndon Johnson to get them. He needed every vote and won by less than one-tenth of one per cent. Bobby opposed Lyndon Johnson for the place. Stupid.

After the Dallas horror, had Bobby simply played square with Lyndon Johnson while he stayed in the Cabinet and not knifed him in the back it was obviously to President Johnson's political advantage to make him his running mate, exactly what Bobby wanted. But on the basis of Bobby's performance Mr. Johnson couldn't trust him. Smart-smart Bobby outsmarted himself. Stupid.

Since then the only political victory Bobby Kennedy has won in New York State was a hassle about a surrogate judge in New York City. In a midnight revolt the nominating convention repudiated Bobby and chose the man (Frank O'Connor) he tried to block. He created, again, his own anti-Bobby protest.

Newsewriter Jimmy Breslin, an RFK intimate, expressed the reason. "I'd heard about the ruthlessness of the man, but you have to see him coming right at you when you cross him to believe it."

Bobby's participation in foreign affairs, beginning with the Bay of Pigs and ending with Indonesia, was utterly disastrous. And utterly stupid.

VIETNAM RECORD

He has been on all sides of the Vietnam war. His brother, not President Johnson, made the fateful, ghastly mistake of sending in the first U.S. combat troops and committing us to a land war in Southeast Asia. In Saigon, in February, 1962, backing up his brother, Bobby stated, "We are going to win the war in Vietnam. We will remain until we do win."

I think the American people understand and fully support the struggle. It amazes me the way Mr. Johnson has kept his patience about Bobby Kennedy.

Why is Bobby now so color-blind about world communism? Why did he say at the University of Chicago in February, 1966, that the United States has "wildly exaggerated the dangers of Red Chinese aggressions?" Why did he stage his self-serving junket to South Africa, no matter the incitement sure to follow there and here? Why is his pitch always left-paw? His political strategy is to make himself unbeatable from the left. He has only made it easier for George C. Wallace.

President Johnson's overspending, accompanied by the foreseeable gold crisis, has been an obvious threat to our solvency and national security.

Instead of helping in good conscience to sound the alarm, Bobby has systematically tried to make political hay in the image of a bigger spender than LBJ. If the President proposes $1 billion for something, you can always count on Bobby to propose 10. If LBJ says 10, Bobby says 20. And so it goes, ad nauseum.

Two months ago (January 12) this column wrote: "I take my hat off to Senator McCarthy for his courage in fascinating contrast to Senator Kennedy's self-serving opportunism in playing it cool. Bobby, the boneless wonder, should be ashamed . . . the more I write about McCarthy the more I like him, although I think his views are disastrous . . . Bobby is making another mistake . . . the chances are overwhelming that Bobby will outsmart himself."

In this writer's opinion, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy somehow just hasn't got it in him to be, and never will be, President of the United States.

People's Forum

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Think! Should the United States continue to maintain a totally corrupt Vietnamese government supported by only 10% of the South Vietnamese people? Should we help to destroy Vietnam to save it for the American way of life? Is it really desirable to impose our kind of self-determination on a culture with a different value system? Should hundreds of the very best of our young men be killed every week because our president refuses to admit our policies may have been in error?

We believe it is time for an unbiased study of these questions. We urge everyone to vote on April 2nd for the one candidate who is committed to a reasoned examination of our Vietnamese involvement, Senator Eugene McCarthy.

Small Minority Does Great Damage to UW Liberal Reputation

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Again the University of Wisconsin administration has had the humiliating experience of being obliged to apologize publicly to a distinguished public figure because a small group of campus rowdies heckled him so loudly and persistently that he was unable to deliver a speech he was invited to deliver on the campus.

Chancellor Sewell, as he wrote to Secretary of Agriculture Freeman, the man who was chased from the College of Agriculture auditorium platform by an obviously concerted plan of a group of student radicals, is stating the precise truth when he said that such unpardonable behavior is doing "incalculable damage" to the proud reputation of the university.

As the university authorities said some time earlier when a United States senator on the campus received the same treatment from a corps of academic hoodlums, they intend to enforce the regulations against the disruption of public meetings, "but enforcement is difficult at best."

MINDLESSNESS CHIDED

Those advocated of "student power," he suggests, should prove the earnestness of their aspirations by helping the administration in combating such "mindless totalitarianism."

These are strong words. One may sympathize with Dr. Sewell's embarrassment and chagrin and imagine the angry mail that these incidents direct to his desk. Yet the onlooker may wonder whether the university is doing all that it can to persuade its students, most of whom are adults or approaching adulthood, that it won't tolerate the kind of misbehavior that would be punished instantly in high school, or, indeed, in other campus activities.

What would be the consequence, for example, if a group of students shouted down a University of Wisconsin faculty member lecturing in Bascom Hall? Would they be punished? The answer is obvious.

ADMINISTRATION WARNED

The school administration has now had a succession of warnings that its enrollment lists include a minority of students whose major objective is troublemaking, and who glory in the publicity they can inspire. At the last count the school had a dozen and a half campus policemen or thereabouts. Surely they are not on the payroll merely to control traffic.

Half a dozen of them assigned to a campus meeting hall on such occasions could promptly eject the hecklers and disrupters, even as an octogenarian politician angrily threw out of the hall a troublemaker at a Milwaukee public meeting the other day where the man on the platform was taking a calculated risk and was not appearing as a guest of a public institution and an institution dedicated to free speech, inquiry and thought.

The university should know, and doubtless does, that these incidents are being closely watched by the general public.

EXPRESSES APPREHENSION

Dr. Sewell earlier expressed publicly some apprehension about the deterioration of relations between the Madison campus and the Madison general community. He might also be concerned about the state community, which supports the university in a generous way by any gauge.

The question is posed: Why do these incidents occur in Madison, and not at Oshkosh, or LaCrosse, or River Falls and other localities where there are also publicly supported educational institutions? Is it, as some persons guess, that Madison has a higher ratio of graduate students and in one way or another has more appeal to the radical?

Is it because the other institutions more nearly typify the sons and daughters of the middle class of the working class families of Wisconsin who are more aware of the sacrifices their families are making on their behalf? Is it because Madison has become a center of attraction for the academic transient, thousands of them nonresidents and sons and daughters of well-to-do parents living in tax jurisdictions where educational opportunity of similar quality is not provided?

These are the questions that will trouble the university, if the tyrannically rowdy minority is not somehow controlled or eliminated.

There's 29 Meanings For Our Word 'Break'

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Despite the many virtues of the English language, as compared to many others, one of the just complaints that foreigners bring against it is the multiple meanings of words — and common words, at that.

To take a simple verb at random, the word "break" has nine distinct different meanings as a transitive verb, and 12 different meanings as an intransitive verb. And the noun "break" has at least eight different meanings, ranging from prosody to electricity to sports.

It is even worse with idiomatic phrases in English. It is hard to believe, but true, that the large Oxford Dictionary cites 52 meanings of the phrase "take up," and 67 meanings of the phrase "set up." How can any foreigner learning the language ever possibly distinguish among these multifarious meanings?

At the opposite extreme, our language is equally perverse in tending to use common and frequently abused of which is the title word "got," which is often made to do the work of dozens of other, and better, words

As far back as the first publication of Brewer's "Dictionary of Phrase and Fable," in 1870, the relentless flogging of the word "got" was parodied in the following passage:

"I got on horseback within ten minutes after I got your letter. When I got to Canterbury I got a chaise for town; but I got wet though, and have got such a cold that I shall not get rid of in a hurry. I got to the Treasury about noon, but first of all got shaved and dressed. I soon got into the secret of getting a memorial before the Board, but I could not get an answer then; however, I got intelligence from a messenger that I should get one next morning.

"As soon as I got back to my inn, I got my supper, and then got to bed. When I got up next morning, I got my breakfast and, having got dressed, I got out in time to get an answer to my memorial. As soon as I got it, I got into a chaise, and got back to Canterbury by three, and got home for tea. I have got nothing for you, and so adieu."

"Make" is another all-purpose maid in the language; we make friends, make money, make up, make out, make do, make over, make a speech, make known, make fast, make war, add one and one to make two, make a will, make 90 miles an hour, make the rounds, make the team, make a game, make merry, make free, make believe, make no bones, and how can anyone make head or tail out of such a language?

Officials from Appleton High School-East, New London, Manawa, Marion, Weyauwega and Wittenberg will be among 60 counselors and principals of 40 high schools attending the conference on academic offerings, Thursday at Wisconsin State University-Stevens Point.

The day-long conference will include an explanation of the new campus reserve officer training corps, a briefing on the summer orientation program for freshmen, and a conference with students.

Residents Ask for Help To Save Drew Street Trees

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I missed an article in The Post-Crescent last January that mentioned what the Department of Public Works intends to do to Appleton streets this summer. I was appalled when I called the department recently and they confirmed this destructive program that they are embarked upon.

So much has been said about the need for industrial parks as a reason for people moving to Appleton, but nothing about our once very beautiful city! The concerted effort to destroy this beauty is frightening. When one hundred year old trees are cut down like kindling wood and saplings suggested in their place, one wonders about the short-sightedness of the city planners.

The master plan, that is frequently referred to, is not an arbitrary plan, but one of suggestions to be used in a manner most feasible to our city. When Lawrence University blocked Lawrence Street and St. Therese School blocked Durkee Street, the plan was scuttled. Apparently, there is a new master plan that now must be adhered to.

We, the people, who pay the taxes on Drew Street are going to have our properties devaluated by an adamant group of men who call it progress when they despoil a section of our city to make faster race tracks. It is almost impossible for children and elderly people to safely cross Drew Street, now. What will it be like if it is widened?

Cities all over the nation are spending thousands upon thousands of dollars to preserve their natural beauty and heritage, but not in Appleton! We destroyed most of our ravines by filling them with trash and making them breeding places for rats. Now, we are systematically destroying our beautiful trees! We have also destroyed all the historical buildings that in other cities attract visitors. There is one historical home, that is privately owned, the grounds of which have been so mutilated, that it is one of the first things mentioned by visitors who haven't been in Appleton for a number of years. My nephew, who is a colonel in the Air Force and has traveled and fought in all parts of the world, drove down Richmond Street and Memorial Drive in shocked disbelief. He couldn't understand that today's engineers and planners couldn't have circumvented this destruction.

Several years ago, we were informed that one-way streets were an absolute necessity to implement the smooth flow of traffic, but today a wide two-way street is supposed to be the answer. This is contrary to what large cities are doing. One-way streets have been the solution and salvation for them, and they could be for us. By one-way streets, I don't mean small unexpected segments of streets being one-way. This has been very confusing to some visitors driving around our town.

Some people living on Drew Street seem to think that it is to be widened only from College Avenue to Franklin Street. They don't know that the all-over plan is to widen the street all the way to the city limits. So, the trees all the way to the city limits will be cut down — not just the ton wake up before it is too late! If the tall trees on our streets are destroyed, will the tax department of the city reduce our taxes in proportion to the way our property will have been devaluated? As I hope the people of Apple-

London Gold Market Opens to Signs of Metal's Fading Monetary Importance

By LAWRENCE MALKIN
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — London's gold market reopened today and with indications gold's monetary role may be diminishing there was no major bonanza for speculators whose buying rush closed the market 17 days ago.

This weekend's agreement in Stockholm to create "paper gold"—a new form of international credits for world trade—dealt speculators their biggest blow in months.

In effect, the world's major non-Communist trading nations, excluding France, agreed to accept each other's paper promises to repay part of their trading debts without the security of gold. This could be the first step on a long road leading to the end of gold as money, meaning a decline in the demand for the metal and drop in its price.

Price Ranges
The price in the London free market ranged in early trading from $37.50 to $38 an ounce, less than $3 above the price of $35 formerly guaranteed by the United States and six other nations.

To keep the price down in the face of a gold rush which indicated lack of confidence in paper money, the gold pool nations had to supply gold from their own stocks to meet the demand.

At a meeting in Washington March 17, they decided to continue to settle accounts among themselves by transferring gold at $35 an ounce. But they decided to leave the free market price to fluctuate with supply and demand.

When the London market closed March 15, markets in Paris, Zurich and elsewhere remained open. To the surprise of some authorities and the shock of some gold hoarders, the price of gold rose less than $10 and then fell back. Some had been gambling it would double under panic demand.

Markets Small
But transactions in these small markets were not an accurate gauge. Hence the interest in today's reopening.

A speculator who bought a ton of gold at $35 an ounce and sold it today would have a paper profit of nearly $100,000, but cutting into that would be commissions, handling and insurance charges and interest on money borrowed to buy the gold originally.

Today's price was "certainly

Humphrey Gives No Hint of Plans

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, suddenly in a position to seek the Democratic presidential nomination if he wants to, gave no immediate hint of his plans Sunday night.

In a brief statement, he said he knew in advance of President Johnson's decision not to seek re-election and deeply regretted that decision.

"I think there is little or nothing further that I could say or should say," he said.

There was some feeling in Washington that Johnson would like to see Humphrey succeed him.

Humphrey commented during a break in a dinner at the home of U.S. Ambassador Fulton H. Freeman for Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz. The vice president is in Mexico to sign a treaty banning nuclear weapons in Latin America.

Ralph McGill, publisher of the Atlanta, Ga., Constitution, said today Humphrey told him during the dinner he tried to talk his message to the nation was a Johnson out of his decision to moving, enlightening and very withdrawing from the presidential race.

"But he said the President—had made up his mind and there was no changing it," McGill wrote in his newspaper column. He is one of a group of newsmen with Humphrey in Mexico City.

McGill said Humphrey told him the President visited him at Humphrey's apartment in Washington for an hour Sunday morning to inform him of the decision.

Evaluate Services
In his statement, Humphrey said that "as time passes and people in the calmness of their reason can evaluate the services of President Johnson, they will come to recognize his very singular achievements."

"This of course is a very sad moment for me, but I've been very proud to serve alongside the President. I consider it one of the real privileges of my life. I think there is little or nothing further that I could say or should say. The President's statement stands on its own right. It was clear and it was unequivocal."

"I should add that I think that his message to the nation was a moving, enlightening and very inspiring message. And I think it will serve a very great cause—the cause of peace both at home and abroad."

VIETNAM VETERANS SPEAK OUT

As veterans of the Vietnam war, we have rallied in support of the candidacy of Senator Eugene McCarthy for the Presidency of the United States. Alone among American politicians this one man had the courage to place his career in the service of his convictions.

He has spoken directly and honestly to the more than one million Vietnam veterans when he said: "My criticism of the Administration's policy in Vietnam in no way diminishes my admiration for the courage and patriotism of our soldiers. They are fighting under conditions which are more difficult and more treacherous than American fighting men have faced in a long time. What is at issue in this campaign is not the bravery and loyalty of American soldiers but the wisdom of sending so many hundreds of thousands of them to fight and die for a corrupt South Vietnamese government that is incapable of defending itself."

The war in Vietnam is now in its second decade. More than 20,000 Americans have died there. In about the time it takes to read this letter the United States Government will spend nearly a quarter of a million dollars in Vietnam.

It is now abundantly clear that the present administration has committed itself to this war and that a change of administration must come before we can expect a change in policy. We therefore endorse the candidacy of Senator Eugene McCarthy in the belief that this is the best support we can give those of our friends who are still fighting in a war the American people did not vote for and do not want.

Denounced by Opponents
'Gag Rule' in House Has Good, Bad Points

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The "gag rule" which the House of Representatives often invokes on the consideration of legislation is regularly denounced by opponents as an unconscionable handicap to congressional discussion and action.

But the Senate, which has no such rule, has just spent a week demonstrating that there may be a lot to be said for the procedure.

The device, known more formally as a closed rule, amounts to this: The House Rules Committee—with the approval of a majority of the membership at large—can decree that the House vote yes or no on a measure before it, without any opportunity to alter it by offering amendments on the floor.

Simple Bill

The Senate received from the House a simple bill to postpone reductions in the excise taxes on automobiles and telephone service and speed up corporate tax collections.

It is part—the lesser part—of President Johnson's program to raise some $12 billion extra revenue to reduce the big budget deficits now impending. The major, and far more controversial, part is an income tax increase which neither chamber has approved.

The Senate, true to its tradition of unlimited debate and amendment, went to work with a will on the House-passed measure. By the time it wearily quit for the weekend Friday it had debated 23 amendments—almost none of which related directly to the basic bill—and adopted 11. Still to be taken up were an undetermined number, including one block-buster—an effort to graft onto the bill an income-tax increase accompanied by a whopping cut in spending. Meanwhile time ran out on the excise tax extension. As of today, by existing law, the rate on automobiles drops five percentage points and on telephone service, seven.

Not Too Severe

If the controversy does not drag on too long, the practical effect may not be too severe—automobile manufacturers and telephone companies were reported planning to continue paying the taxes, since the basic extension bill is not in dispute and would be retroactive to April 1 when passed.

Even so, legal questions may arise, especially if, for example, many telephone bills go out to customers while the issue is still at least technically unsettled.

The House invariably brings up tax bills under closed rules and with debate time limits set in advance, averting the possibility of such tieups.

The argument against the closed rule is obvious: A House majority controlling the Rules Committee could jam prefabricated legislation through.

It could present a conscientious member with an unhappy choice—voting for a bill whose general purpose he approves but which contains some elements he considers unwise, or voting against it and probably killing for a session any chance of dealing with a pressing problem.

Arguments for the closed rule are, first, that writing legislation on the floor is bad business. The committees of Congress are supposed to give expert consideration to legislation, weigh alternatives, take testimony and bring to the floor the version they think best on balance.

All their work could be disrupted by a member's offering of an irresponsible, but politically attractive amendment. The closed rule also can protect a member against pressure from some special interest in his district, an especially important consideration in tax legislation.

Witness' Confession
Doesn't Help; Man
Convicted of Robbery

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A suburban Glendale man was found guilty Friday night of armed robbery in the $19,000 holdup of a Kenosha County bank last year.

Charles L. Cox, 34, was found guilty by a U.S. District Court jury which deliberated six hours. Cox also was found guilty of endangering the lives of bank employees.

Pleaded Innocent

Cox, accused of helping rob the Silver Lake State Bank Nov. 17, pleaded innocent.

He said he had been a friend years earlier of Phillip R. Royal of Racine, who was killed while authorities pursued a car after the robbery.

A defense witness, Robert D. Mitchell, 38, formerly of Appleton, testified during the five-day trial he had robbed the Silver Lake bank, and that Cox was not involved.

Mitchell faces trial next month on a robbery charge involving a Sheboygan County bank.

Halt Ordered In Bombing of North Vietnam

rious peace talks would begin promptly, and he would assume that Hanoi would not "take advantage of our restraint" to improve its military position.

North Vietnamese Spokesmen denounced the formula and declared they would not promise military de-escalation. They did say about three months ago, however, that if the United States would unconditionally halt all attacks on North Vietnam, talks would begin shortly afterward and all relevant questions could be discussed.

Sought Assurance

More recently, it was learned that in diplomatic probings of the North Vietnamese stand the Johnson administration was seeking some assurance that in response to a bombing halt North Vietnam would scale down military operations.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has said repeatedly he wanted to know what action North Vietnam would take if the United States ended its attacks—and he particularly wanted to know what would happen in the border region opposite Khe Sanh where massive enemy troop movements have been under way for months.

Recently officials in Washington have reported they detected no active interest in peace negotiations on North Vietnam's part. Informants said Sunday night there was definitely no understanding with North Vietnam preceding Johnson's decision on the bombing.

The President said he was acting unilaterally.

'Reduction in Violence'

Johnson said his immediate purpose was "to bring about a reduction in the level of violence that now exists" to save lives, and "to permit the contending forces to move closer to a political settlement."

Johnson renewed his offer, first made in early 1965, to have North Vietnam participate in a post-war program of development in Southeast Asia. He also indicated U.S. willingness to have rebel leaders in South Vietnam have a part in that country's political processes.

"There may come a time," he said, "when South Vietnamese—on both sides—are able to work out a way to settle their differences by free political choice rather than by war."

His report to the nation climaxed weeks of review of the Vietnamese situation following an enemy offensive at the end of January and in early February against the cities and towns of South Vietnam. The offensive brought calls from U.S. military leaders in Saigon for reinforcements of up to 106,000 more American troops.

Johnson said he had already sent about 11,000 Marine and airborne troops and over the next five months would send 13,500 support troops. Officials reported that meant that the previously established ceiling of 525,000 U.S. troops in South Vietnam has now been raised to 550,000.

the announcement. Humphrey was to sign a treaty today banning nuclear weapons in Latin America. (AP Wire-photo)

Presidential Decision

'Turning Point Last Fall'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson eased his six-foot-three frame into a maroon chair and said: "I guess the turning point was probably last November."

For some time Johnson had been tossing around in his mind—and talking over with close friends and associates who could keep his secret—the possibility of renouncing the run for another presidential term.

He had even come close to making the stunning announcement that finally came Sunday night when he delivered his State of the Union message to Congress last Jan. 17.

Poor Timing

But with so many more messages on particular phases of his program still on tap, he decided the timing was improper.

So it was not until the last day or two that the President made the final, definite decision against seeking or accepting nomination for a second full term.

His family knew his intention and had what Mrs. Johnson later described as mixed feelings about it. But not many other people did, particularly as to the timing.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey had an inkling. So did Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford, and Clifford's predecessor, Robert S. McNamara.

The President said he talked with his vice president Sunday morning about what he was considering but didn't tell him he was going to announce a decision that night. He did call Humphrey, who by that time had flown to Mexico City, after the radio-television address from the presidential office.

Visit by Commander

What fixes November in Johnson's mind as the turning point was a visit from the U.S. military commander in Vietnam, Gen. William C. Westmoreland.

"His visit didn't bring it about," Johnson explained at a news conference hurriedly arranged just before midnight in the yellow oval room of the White House living quarters.

"His visit coincided with when I turned the corner."

He did let Westmoreland know, though, that he was thinking of foregoing a race for another term. And his press secretary, George Christian, said the President wanted the general's assessment of how an announcement along that line would affect troop morale.

"Westmoreland told him he thought it would be a shock," Christian said, "but not a lasting shock. He pretty well agreed with the President that nobody is indispensable."

Few in Confidence

Christian is one of those who had the President's confidence. He said of the blockbusting announcement:

"I think he really has been giving it hard consideration for about the last year. I think he and Mrs. Johnson have just election was coupled with a series of appeals for national unity.

'Ultimate Strength'

He said: "The ultimate strength of our country and our cause will lie not in powerful weapons or infinite resources or boundless wealth but will lie in the unity of our people."

"This I believe very deeply." Throughout his 37-year public career, Johnson said, "I have put the unity of the people first. I have put it ahead of any divisive partisanship."

Declaring that, indeed, a house divided against itself "by the spirit of faction, of party, of region, of religion, of race, is a house that cannot stand," Johnson went on:

'... Of the People'

"There is division in the American house now. There is divisiveness among us all tonight. And holding the trust that is mine, as President of all the people, I cannot disregard the peril to the progress of the American people and the hope and the prospect of peace for all peoples.

"So, I would ask all Americans, whatever their personal interests or concern, to guard against divisiveness and all its ugly consequences."

Much has been gained through unity in the past four years, he said, and this "just must not now be lost in suspicion, distrust, selfishness and politics among any of our people."

Then he removed himself

'Stands Ready'

But let men everywhere know, however, that a strong, a confident and a vigilant America stands ready tonight to seek an honorable peace—and stands ready tonight to defend an honored cause—whatever the price, whatever the burden, whatever the sacrifices that duty may require."

Johnson concluded with these words:

"Thank you for listening. Good night and God bless all of you."

Veteran Has Enough of Special Tax Exemption

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Dale Bellamy, an Army veteran who lives near Albuquerque, has given up his veteran's tax exemption certificate in New Mexico.

"I'm not trying to be a hero and I'm not trying to set a precedent," he said.

Bellamy said he has received many exemptions the past 22 years and "I feel that this is enough."

been counting the days on when they might get out."

As long ago as last fall, Christian said, he and the President talked with Gov. John B. Connally of Texas about what Johnson was considering. This was at a time when Connally was trying to reach a decision of his own on whether to run for a fourth term—a decision that also was in the negative.

Christian said, too, that he was working during the fall on a speech for Johnson which would have incorporated the Sunday announcement. He said Johnson had in his pocket in writing what would have been the announcement when he addressed Congress on Jan. 17.

Recalling how he stood in the back of the House chamber that night, Christian said, "We didn't know until the last moment whether he was going to do it or not."

Sunday night, Christian had passed the word that there might be an addition to the advance text of Johnson's address to the nation but he said he didn't know whether Johnson actually would use it, and it wouldn't be available ahead of time.

Party Election Chances Helped, Kennedy Feels

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., his presidential prospects enhanced by President Johnson's withdrawal, said today, "I think the Democratic Party is in a better position to capture the presidency than yesterday."

"I will continue my campaign for the presidency of the United States," Kennedy told a news conference in his first official comment on Johnson's surprise announcement of Sunday night.

Kennedy said that Sunday night he had dispatched a telegram to Johnson which read in part: "Your decision regarding the presidency subordinates self to country and is truly magnanimous.

"I respectfully and earnestly request an opportunity to visit with you as soon as possible to discuss how we might work together in the interest of national unity during the coming months."

Kennedy was asked how he thought Johnson's withdrawal might affect Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, now regarded as a possible candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Kennedy replied: "He's had a very distinguished record and I just don't know what his plans might be. Certainly the answer to 'that must come from him.'"

The 42-year-old senator from New York declared: "I'm going to the American people as I have and present my views and ideas of what we need to do in our country."

Kennedy, propelled into the forefront of the race for the Democratic presidential nomination less than three weeks after his entry, returned Sunday night from an extended campaign trip in the west.

Premium Industry Is $4 Billion Business

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Walk into a bank and there's a good chance you'll be handed an alarm clock or a frying pan if you open a savings account.

Switch from oil to gas heating — or from gas to oil, or from either to electric — and your "thank you" may be anything from a set of cooking ware to a clothes dryer.

Fill out a postcard at an airline counter, and you may win $5,000 worth of free air travel anywhere in the world, each year for the rest of your life. Or meet a special quota, as a company salesman, and you may win a free trip to London.

Our national love affair with coupons, sweepstakes, trading stamps, "special offers," promotional games and other premiums and incentives is now reaching fantastic proportions.

Premium Show
This month's Premium Show in New York's Coliseum will display more than 100,000 products to be used as premiums, including whiskey, paper dresses, shoes, mink stoles, steaks, snowmobiles, golf clubs, sailboats and gift certificates at hotel chains. More than 900 premium manufacturers will exhibit at this show, double the number who exhibited only five years ago.

By the end of this year, the premium industry estimates, premium sales volume will reach a staggering $4 billion a year, up from $3 billion as recently as 1966. Of the $4 billion, trading stamps will account for about $1 billion in yearly sales by some 300 different companies.

It's also estimated that $100 billion worth of goods and services are now "moved" in the U.S. each year by some kind of special incentive, and the premium business is beginning to spread to Europe and other areas of the world as well.

New Controls

So pervasive has the premium business become that consumer protectors from coast to coast have singled it out as a key target for new controls.

At least four states have banned trading stamps in recent months and more states are considering banning them.

The Federal Trade Commission is now investigating giveaway games, as is the House small business subcommittee, to find out how much they cost the consumer and how many people actually win.

The New York City Council is considering a bill which would require retailers to offer the consumer a discount if he doesn't accept trading stamps, and a bill now before the House, dubbed "Truth in Trading Stamps" would let the consumer trade stamps in for cash.

Who absorbs the $4 billion cost of premiums? On average, 2 cents out of each dollar you spend in a supermarket offering trading stamps goes strictly for the stamps.

As for the sweepstakes, your chances of winning the top prize may be only one in a million.

Effect on Prices

The premium industry insists that premiums and other incentives pay for themselves by increasing sales volume for any given product or store, or by increasing the productivity of a salesman. For every study issued by a consumer group concluding that trading stamps drive up prices, the industry can produce another study concluding that the stamps have no long-range effect on prices.

Finally, the industry points out that to ban the premium-incentive-trading stamp industry in 25 areas of 12 states to the U.S. economy, since billions of dollars and tens of thousands of jobs are involved.

One conclusion I've reached is that no matter how many chilling statistics on consumer costs I give you to cool your ardor, it won't have much if any effect. Yours is a national love affair, I repeat, and I expect it'll reach a new peak of passion at the Coliseum April 22-25.

National Wilderness Title Asked for Islands

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson sent to Congress Friday a special message urging it to add nine million acres in 25 areas of 12 states to the nation's wilderness system. They included the Wisconsin Islands wilderness, covering the scenic Apostle Islands off Wisconsin's Lake Superior shore.

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — The New Mexico National Guard has lost its military band but gained a medical unit.

The 44th Army Band, used mainly to play at inaugurations of New Mexico governors and parades at National Guard summer camps was eliminated in a recent nationwide guard reorganization.

Maj. Gen. John Pershing Jolly, New Mexico adjutant general, said it was replaced by the 744th Medical Detachment in Al-buquerque with 35 men, including 12 doctors. "Large majority of the band members went into the medical ing."

Instructions for Voting on the Voting Machine

1. Move the Red Handle to the Right. (This Closes the Curtains)

2. Turn Down Voting Pointers Over the Names of Candidates of Your Choice.

3. Leave Voting Pointers DOWN.

4. The law provides that voters may vote for any person for any office, whether regularly nominated or not. To write-in a person's name raise the numbered slide at the top of the machine which is directly above the office column. A pencil for this purpose is located on the side of the ballot.

5. Move the Red Handle to the Left. (This Opens the Curtains)

VOTE ABOUT TO CLOSE CURTAIN
Moving the Red Handle to the Right

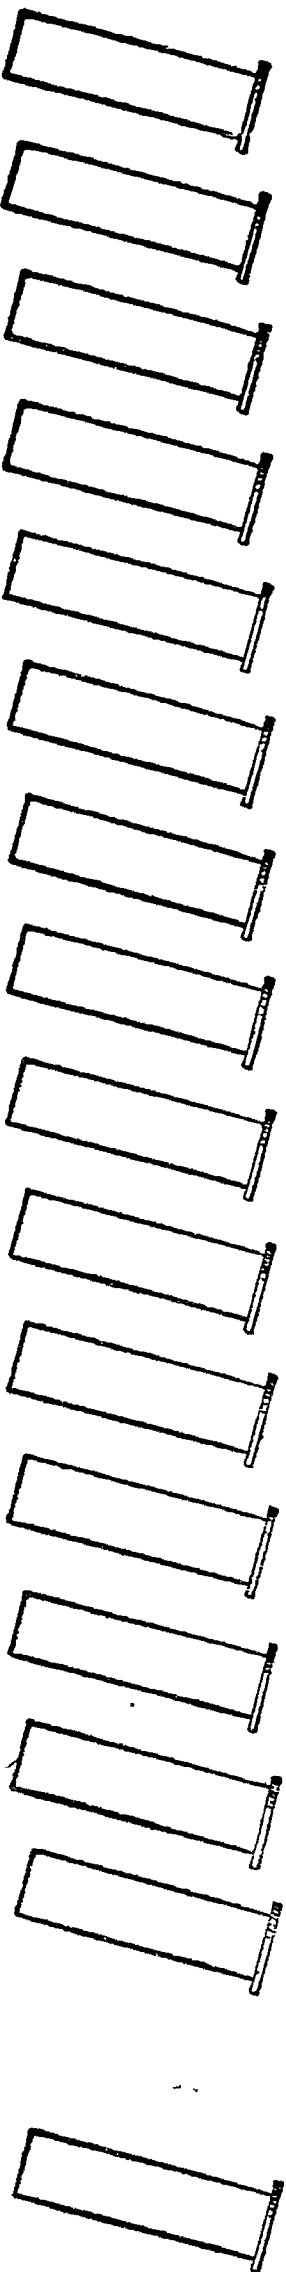

VOTE ABOUT TO OPEN CURTAIN
Moving the Red Handle to the Left

If You Change Your Mind, Turn UP a Voting Pointer and Turn DOWN Another for the Same Office.

CURTAIN CLOSED
VOTING

As no votes are registered until the Red Handle is moved to open the curtain, you can make as many changes as you desire while the Red Handle is at the right side. The machine is so arranged that you can turn down only the proper number of voting pointers for each office; you cannot spoil your ballot by voting for too many candidates. Each candidate's voting pointer is located just above the name; a voting pointer must be turned down over the name of each candidate for whom you wish to vote. LEAVE VOTING POINTERS DOWN. No one will know how you have voted because the movement of the Red Handle to the left returns the voting pointers to the original position before the curtain begins to open.

VOTERS! NOTICE!
REFERENDUM QUESTIONS

1. Shall Section 24 of Article VII of the Constitution be amended to provide a uniform annual retirement date for Supreme Court Justices and Circuit Judges of July 31st following attainment of retirement age, instead of the month of attaining retirement age? (Note—Supreme Court Justices and Circuit Judges now must retire at the end of the month of attaining retirement age. A "yes" vote on this amendment would provide a uniform retirement date of July 31st following attainment of retirement age for all such Justices and Judges and would allow time for calling an April election to choose a successor thereby affecting the transition to a new judge during the summer.)

2. Shall Section 24 of Article VII of the Constitution be amended to permit any person who has served eight or more years as a Justice of the Supreme Court or as a Judge of the Circuit Court to serve temporarily on appointment by the Chief Justice of a Circuit Court under the general laws enacted by the Legislature? (Note — Supreme Court Justices and Circuit Judges now must serve until compulsory retirement age to be eligible to serve temporarily on appointment by the Chief Justice as a Circuit Court Judge. If this amendment is adopted, a Justice or Judge leaving office prior to compulsory retirement age would be eligible for such temporary appointment if he has served eight years thereby reducing the need of creating additional courts.)

3. Shall Section 10 of Article VII of the Constitution be amended to permit ad libitum propositions for outside County Property when deemed necessary by the Legislature from sources other than a tax on property?

4. Shall Article IV, section 11 of the constitution be amended to permit the Legislature to amend its regular session whenever there are two years?

State's New 'No' Option Probably Unique in Nation

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Voters of Wisconsin who participate in the presidential primary elections Tuesday will find an option that is new here, and perhaps unique among the election systems of the country.

Democrats and Republicans will have the opportunity to vote "no" if the names listed on either ballot appear to them to offer an insufficient choice for their tastes.

There is no way to anticipate the number of such "no" votes, but there probably won't be many. The intention of the men who wrote the provision was to satisfy the Wisconsin tradition of giving the elector the broadest possible opportunity to express himself, but there was a practical consideration involved also.

There may be times when there is no real contest on the Wisconsin ballot, as in 1964 when the state had two nominal candidates, or "favorite sons" as a result of the failure of any major candidates to file here.

If that should ever happen again, the voter could show his dissatisfaction with it through a "no" vote. In the event the negatives constituted a majority in either party, the result would be to send a free or uninstructed delegation to the national nominating convention of the party.

Harold Hallow's, the new chief justice of the state supreme court, relates that he proposed to the girl who became his wife when he was a freshman at Marquette University many years ago, but told her regretfully at the same time that he would be unable to marry for six or seven years because he wanted to complete college and law school and establish himself in law practice.

They graduated from the university in the same Bachelor of Arts class, and he left for the East to attend Columbia University Law School.

Within six weeks after getting his law degree, he married his sweetheart, and then confessed that during his New York years he had worried that she might find another young man and refuse to wait for him.

"You worry?" she replied. "Why all through those waiting years I prayed, 'Our Father, Hallow's be my name.'"

Capitol politicians are getting reports of a falling-out between Ben Hanneman, the veteran manager of the Wisconsin Towns Association, and the Republican administration of Gov. Knowles. The usual guess is that Hanneman is resentful, and worried, about what the Tarr task force studying local government and finance, in effect an agency of the administration, may ultimately recommend about reforms in the local government's structure. If there is a disposition to recommend significant structural changes in local administration, the towns will obviously be vulnerable and as the urbanization of the state increases, they have less punch in their legislative relations.

The smallest high school in Wisconsin, in enrollment terms, serves the settlement on Washington Island in Door county. It has 42 students in grades nine to 12. The largest regular high school is Milwaukee South Division, with 2,148 students this year.

William Fairfield, Green Bay native who was the resourceful publicity chief for Gov. Gaylord Nelson during his two terms in the state executive office will return to the state political wars soon as the publicity manager of Bronson LaFollette's campaign for the governorship.

Assemblyman Paul Alfonsi, chairman of the state assembly's standing and interim committees on conservation, is pushing for state action to acquire and preserve for public use a substantial portion of Wolf River shorelands in Menominee county owned by McMoniue Enterprises, Inc.

In the view of conservation administrators, the area could become the outstanding state park in Wisconsin. But spokesmen for the Indian community have repeatedly indicated that they will set a high price for lease or sale, even if they are disposed to negotiate with the state, which is not yet certain.

A Clergy Statement of Concern

The over-riding issue in tomorrow's primary is the war in Vietnam. We strongly believe that the continued escalation of this war is morally wrong as well as economically and militarily indefensible. It is costing us more than we can gain and is creating ill-will among the people of the non-communist world.

We see only one way of being heard in Washington. We must use the ballot box to speak for peace in a way that cannot be ignored. The people in New Hampshire spoke, and Washington listened. The people in Wisconsin must also speak on April 2.

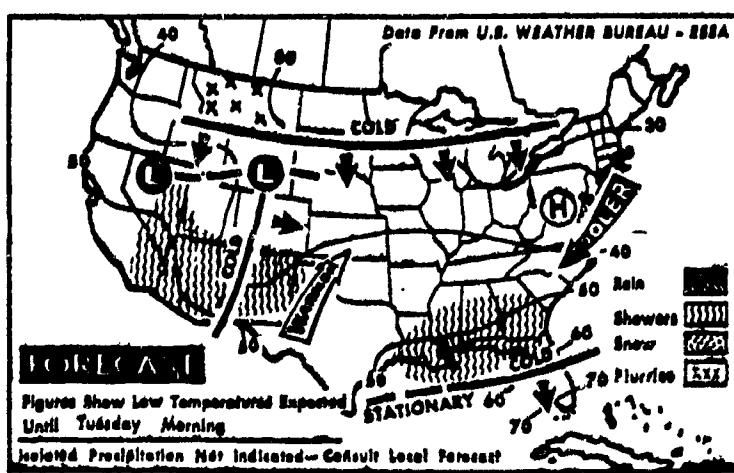

Senator Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota has outlined with courage and clarity a moderate, responsible program of de-escalation and negotiated peace in Vietnam.

We are clergymen. As such we have no interest in endorsing a candidate in the usual sense. But the issues are critical. The opportunity to speak for peace, by means of the ballot box, must not be lost.

Senator McCarthy has shown his courage and integrity in giving us the only opportunity we have to cast a vote against the administration's policies abroad and at home. The war in Vietnam is no longer defensible militarily, economically, or diplomatically. To support the costs of this war, President Johnson proposes to raise taxes. Meanwhile, federal funds allocated to agriculture, education, and other vital activities are being cut.

The conscience of our country is being challenged today as never before. Eugene McCarthy articulates that challenge. He provides us with the political leadership to end the war in Vietnam and to meet the pressing needs of our cities, schools, and agricultural programs.

As teachers in Winnebago and Outagamie Counties, we appeal to your conscience. Vote for McCarthy on Tuesday.

'God Looks to Farmer With Favor'

FREEDOM — "God looks to the American farmer with favor for their generosity," the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Alfred Schneider, Manitowoc, told a Green Bay Catholic diocesan rural life conference here Thursday.

Msgr. Schneider, a native of Chilton, preached the sermon during the mass concelebrated by 15 diocesan priests.

His point in case was the surplus wheat shipment made to India last year during its drought-imposed food shortage which threatened mass starvation of its populace.

Msgr. Schneider is a former director of the Catholic Relief Services which oversees such aid programs. American assistance helped build 7,000 new wells, many dams, irrigation ponds, miles of road, new schools, agricultural training courses and introduced improved seed varieties.

"Developing nations are still poor," he said. Less than 10 per cent of our national production in 1965-66 was sent out in relief, but technical training also is needed.

Helping countries change their farming methods can be self-sufficiency. Hybrid seed corn has boosted Mexico's production almost 40 per cent," he observed.

Invested in the Company of St. Isidore by the Rev. Paul Vanden Hogen, Stiles, diocesan director of the Catholic Rural Life Conference, were Mr and Mrs Alois Van Camp, Norbert Jackels, Gerald Nackers, Alois Van Vreede and Sylvester Vosters, all of rural Kaukauna, Mrs. Joseph Sambas, Hortonville, Mrs. James Mulroy, New London.

ing although he felt its membership "is very limited compared to the task ahead." Its grain holding and the Farmers Union grain reseed and loan policy are similar.

He noted the contention by He felt some means should develop "sanctions against those who do not cooperate. Holding actions tend to penalize the faithful NFO member who holds his commodity and often ends up with a lower price than those who deliberately sell during the holding action."

Msgr. O'Rourke recommended the Farmers-Union-backed-Mondale bill which would set up a National Agricultural Relations Board to oversee bargaining and an extension of marketing orders to more farm commodities.

The Farm Bureau's experience in foreign trade, marketing livestock and vegetables, showed, he said, but he scorned their "extreme laissez-faire economic theory" as being unrealistic in view of modern economic life.

He noted the contention by Charles Schumann, American Farm Bureau president, that marketing cooperatives "cannot adequately cope with the revolutionary changes that are taking place in the marketing of many commodities." Schumann felt the co-ops were unable to muster sufficient volume to exercise much influence on price levels which raised the need for bargaining associations to organize farm operators rather than assembling commodities.

Msgr. O'Rourke felt it folly to resist the efforts currently being made to organize farmers into bargaining groups on a commodity wide basis.

Even, the Grange has intensi-

State Laws

Msgr. O'Rourke said large corporate farm holdings constituted unfair competition to the family farmers and should be curbed. In particular, he proposed state laws to prevent them from using farms for writing off taxable income.

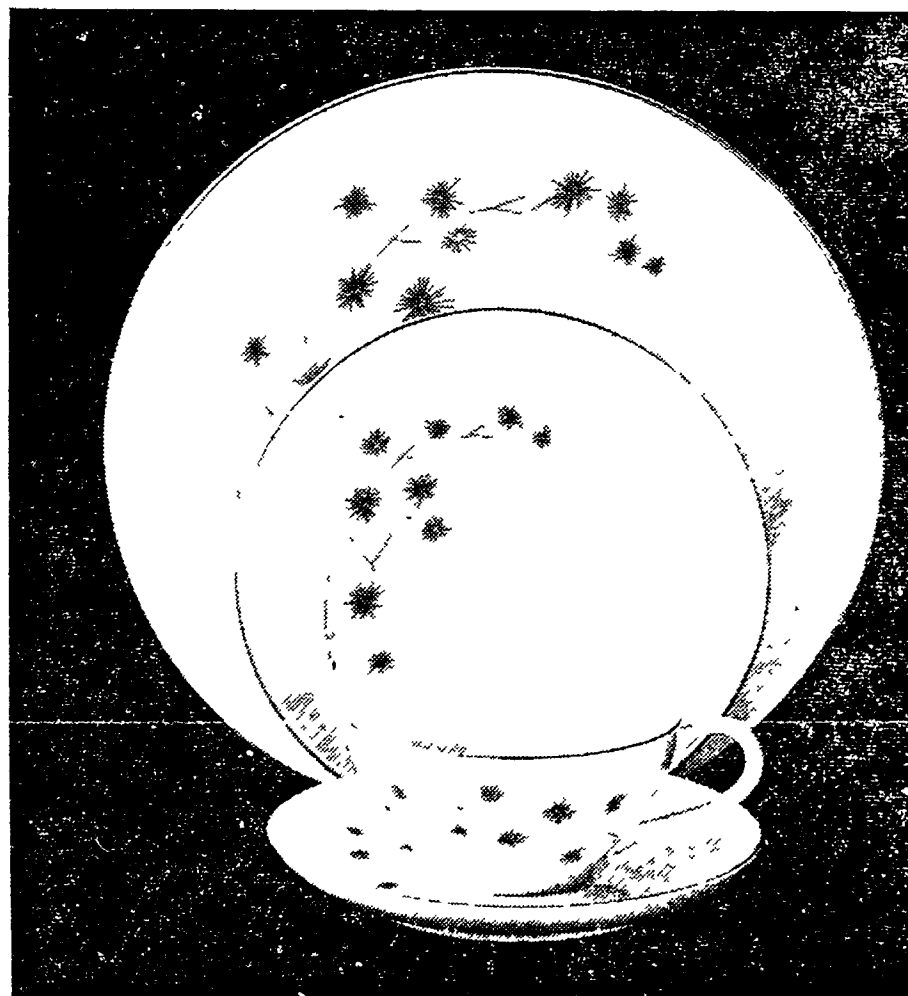

Federal payments for land retirement and crop reduction should be limited to a specified number of units. "Distributive justice demands that huge sums of money should not be paid to already wealthy individuals and corporations," he contended. Further protection would be provided by strict enforcement of existing federal laws limiting use of public irrigation water to a specified number of acres per user. Similar limitations should be imposed on appropriations for future water developments.

Positive Steps

He lauded the Farmers Union for leadership in the fight against corporate farming but in other matters felt it leaned too heavily on the federal government for programs which could be handled by farmers themselves.

The National Farmers Organization (NFO) was saluted for its efforts in collective bargain-

Above Are the Supplies a working woman might need when she locks herself in a quiet room to work on her income tax.

Tax Survival Kit Chases Taxpayer's Blues Away

It's tax time blues time again. This year about 28 million working women will be wrestling with income tax forms either individually or in a joint return with their husbands. For the woman who is not a mathematical genius, this is a very trying experience. There are many headaches involved including translating the directions on the tax form into simple English, and figuring out the higher math of the long form.

So this year, to take some of the pain out of the annual tax preparation strain, try this simple basic taxpayer's survival kit. Once you've put it together, just take it into your den, lock the door and tax-deduct away. It may be the only tax "relief" you're going to get.

Here's what should go into your tax survival kit:

Need Sharp Pencils Sharp pencils and several pads. You'll need a good supply of these. Make sure the pencils have erasers.

Pocket-size calculator. If you don't happen to own an IBM computer, buy a small calculator at your local stationery store. It's a big help especially if math was your worst subject in school.

A large pot of coffee or tea. You'll find a short break about every half hour a big help.

A large bottle of aspirin. To relieve the inevitable headache that most taxpayers get from making out their income tax.

A piggy bank. Preferably one that is chock full of coins since the last line total of the tax form always seems to be more than your employer deducted from your paychecks.

Eat lightly. A heavy meal tends to make you feel sluggish and at a time like this you need to keep your wits about you. When you take your coffee or tea break, try closing your eyes to rest them. Otherwise the figures tend to jump around on the tax forms after awhile.

Turn on the radio. Soft background music can be soothing. There, that should get you through this annual ordeal. But if the task does leave you a bit exhausted and depressed — why not go out and buy yourself a new spring hat!

Imagined Dash Canned beets (including their liquid) may be added to beef bouillon and heated for a good soup. Season the soup with a little brown sugar and lemon juice.

Recipes sometimes call for peeled and seeded tomatoes. To remove the skins from the tomatoes, dip into boiling-hot water. Remove the seeds, cut the tomatoes in half and gently squeeze out the seeds from each half.

was no future in hearts since South surely held the jack. (West would have led the jack if his suit had been headed by the jack-ten.)

East therefore shifted to the jack of spades, and South's next finesse lost to the king. Back came a spade, and South's ace was knocked out.

South would have survived if he had guessed the winning play in diamonds, but he played the ace of diamonds first. East was then sure to get in with the queen of diamonds, and the spade tricks put South down two.

Anybody who wants to go to a bridge player's heaven should refuse the finesse at the first trick. South should take the ace of hearts, lead out the king of diamonds and then try a finesse with the jack of diamonds.

South doesn't care if he loses this finesse because West cannot safely attack spades. South has time to develop a second heart trick and is therefore sure to take two diamonds, two hearts, four clubs and one spade.

As the cards lie, the diamond know that it often pays to refuse finesse works. Now South is sure a finesse in cold blood, a point of 10 tricks and can afford to try to hammer home this try a spade finesse after he has developed his second heart.

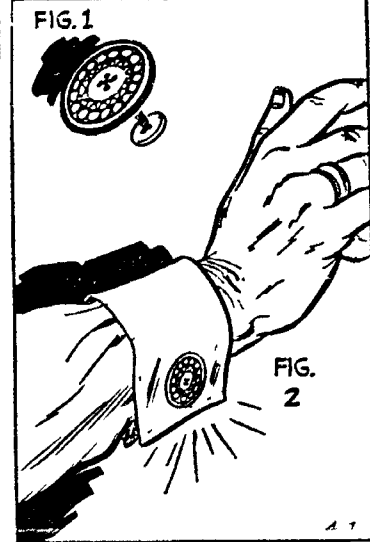

West opened the ten of hearts. South refuses a heart finesse, and South, a devout finesser, but takes the diamond finesse. He tried a finesse with dummy's for the same reason. He must have 12 points in high cards and the king prevent East from leading 12 points for the doubletons, and present them to Dad or enough for an opening bid.

It is easy to do. Mother would be pleased with a pair, too, if she wears blouses with French cuffs.

Two Buttons

The completed cuff links will resemble that in Figure 1. A large, fancy button is joined to a smaller button by means of strong thread. The thread forms a link through the button holes of the cuff (Figure 2).

For a single pair of links you will require two big, fancy buttons that are alike, one for each cuff. The smaller buttons should also be alike to keep the links uniform in appearance.

Thread a needle with strong thread of a suitable color for the use of fancy buttons and sew the buttons of each link together, leaving half an inch of space between them. Twist the thread around itself several times back of each button to keep them from sliding together.

When you have completed the links, place them in a small gift box containing a layer of cotton fluff, and present them to Dad or Mother.

Kaukauna Girl 'Fashions' Way Through National Competition

Clothes are as much a part of a teen-age girl's life as records, high school, Cokes and boys. It's a fun thing where a young lady can express herself in her unique half-girl, half-woman world.

Also a part of the teen girl's world is a part-time job. And when that job involves working with fashion, it combines extra cash with fun and "growing" experiences.

Miss Mary Pat McCarty, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil McCarty, 601 W. Wisconsin Ave., Kaukauna, is a second-year member of Prange's Teen Board and the store representative on the Bobbie Brooks National Fashion Board. For the Kaukauna High School senior, this is more than just a job after school and weekends.

Scholarship Prize

Since October Mary Pat has been involved, with about 200 other national representatives, in competition for a $5,000 first place scholarship award presented annually by the sponsoring manufacturer of junior clothing.

On her hopeful way to the big prize, each competitor was assigned six projects in the world of fashion. The projects appear to be designed to bridge that gap between the teens and young womanhood.

There are exercises in youth fashion such as putting together a complete wardrobe for a high schooler and reviewing a teen magazine. In the realm of more mature experience in fashion, competitors interviewed two important women in the community involved in fashion, interviewed people who work behind the fashion scene and wrote a newspaper article describing the spring and summer line of Bobbie Brooks.

Final Project

The final, and most intricate project, was the coordination of a fashion show. Among judging points were how well music and settings were used to show off the clothes and how the clothes were arranged in groups.

"Popcorn, Peanuts and Clowns" was the theme chosen by Mary Pat for her show Tuesday at the YMCA. Mary Pat got an extra boost from the city Tri-Y clubs which sold tickets and will receive the proceeds of the event.

Mary Pat plans to continue her start in a fashion career, beginning next fall at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee and then perhaps transferring to a specialized school of fashion later.

Dr. Horwich to Discuss Role as 'Miss Frances' at Conference

Dr. Frances Horwich, perhaps best known to TV viewers as "Miss Frances" of the NBC-TV "Ding Dong School," will head the speaker's list at an April 27th current events conference for women. The meeting will be held in the Reeve Memorial Union Lounge at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh.

Dr. Horwich will discuss "Television and Our Family," applying her experience and knowledge in both these areas to her address and relating her views to the conference theme, "Television: Architect of Society." The aim of the conference is to consider how and why television has changed our society, and whether anything can, or should, be done about it.

Throughout the 1950's, "Ding Dong School" was the household choice for good, wholesome viewing for children, and the program ultimately was honored with every children's programming award for excellence. "Miss Frances," who both wrote and produced the show, was acclaimed "the outstanding contributor to the children of this nation as teacher, educator, and friend."

Now Chicago Director

Today, although "Ding Dong School" no longer is seen on the network, Dr. Horwich remains active in her concern to provide good television viewing for children. After the live telecast of "Ding Dong School" ended, she subsequently became Supervisor of Children's Programs for the National Broadcasting Company, Educational Director for the Curtis Publishing Company, and now holds the position of Director of Children's Programming for WFLD-TV, Chicago. Her television programs, "Time for Children" with Miss Frances, and "Time for Par-life has been marked by... her acceptance of all children's ability to learn for themselves... her faith in children has touched the lives of thousands who have been permanently influenced by that faith in them."

Renowned as Author

Many years ago, Dr. Horwich took her first job in an elementary school in Evanston, Illinois. She had just received her Ph.D. degree from the University of Chicago. Later, after earning an M.A. from the Teachers College of Columbia University, and the Ph.D. from Northwestern, she taught at the college level. Recognition of her service to education added the honorary Dr. of Pedagogy degree, bestowed by Bowling Green (Ohio). Just prior to her entrance into network television, Dr. Horwich had advanced to the chairmanship of the Education Department of Roosevelt University, Chicago.

Television, however, was not Dr. Horwich's only mass media contribution to the education of children. For several decades, parents and children have read and enjoyed her many articles and books for and about children and the parent-child relationship. Her series of Ding Dong School books is still popular. But even these activities were not the limits of involvement for Dr. Horwich in her love for youngsters.

Most Recent Award

She became active in numerous voluntary organizations, resulting in many awards and citations for her contributions. Her most recent Certificate of Appreciation came from her work with the 1967 Youth Power Project in Chicago Committee on Urban Opportunity.

"Television: Architect of Society" is being jointly sponsored by the Division of Extended Services, Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh; Lawrence University, Appleton; and the University of Wisconsin Extension through the U.W. Green Bay and Fox Valley Centers.

Other conference speakers will be: James Robertson, Director of Radio and Television, University of Wisconsin; Harold Larson, Vice President, J. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., Chicago; and Arthur Olszyk, News Editor for the

Let Freezer Do the Work

The efficient use of your freezer compartment can be the key to convenience, economy and short-cuts in meal planning. Even a small freezer compartment can be a great help. Knowing just what and how to freeze, preparing double amounts... serving some, saving some... are the first steps to consider.

Here are some tips on freezing: No other single factor in freezing is as important as the protection of food against moisture loss and "freezer burn." Proper wrapping is essential. Plastic keeps moisture inside and frost from touching the food. There's no guessing what's in the freezer either — the see-through wrapping tells you at a glance just what's inside.

Here's another important tip: Next time your supermarket has a "special" on meat, buy enough for another meal. By choosing a double recipe, you stretch your dollar savings into two meals and save a day's work in the kitchen.

Further information on how to register for this conference can be obtained by calling or writing the Division of Extended Services, Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh.

Morning speaker is Mrs. Kenneth Reed, state president from Kenosha, whose topic is "Apples of Gold in Vessels of Silver."

"Troubled Youth in a Troubled World" is the topic of Dr. Harold A. Treffert, superintendent of Winnebago State Hospital, who will speak at the afternoon session.

Youth Panel

Also participating in the afternoon session will be a youth panel from Ripon College which will discuss questions on Vietnam, religion, the "new morality," the draft system and drugs in presenting "The Viewpoint of Youth."

In addition to the speakers, "This is Your Life," colored slides from individual clubs will be shown and narrated. Awards planned for Wednesday at Me-

Barbecues come in dozens and dozens of shapes, prices and sizes.

Assembly comes before the cookout. The eager chef should select an easily-put-together barbecue.

Two-barbecue families can picnic or feast, on burgers or a full-course dinner.

Select Barbecue Carefully For Tasty Outdoor Fun

With summer close at hand, now is the time to prepare for the outdoor cooking season.

Bring your barbecue out of storage, clean it up, inspect for any rust spots and touch them up if necessary. Then lay in a supply of charcoal and you'll be ready for that first pleasant evening when the family moves outdoors and dad relieves mom of her cooking chores.

If you're purchasing a new barbecue, now is the time to shop while stores have a full stock of new 1968 models. You'll find variety, for with surveys reporting that seven out of ten American families cook outdoors frequently, barbecue designers have been busy engineering grills to suit almost every mood and every occasion.

Dozens of Designs

For years, the bowl-shaped brazier barbecue has been the single most popular style, but today retailers report a growing trend toward larger, better-equipped wagon and kettle-style barbecues. With their smoker cabinets, work shelves, ovens and more precise fire controls, these units are virtually outdoor kitchens, perfectly capable of turning out a full-course dinner. At the other end of the cost scale are the small, compact "convenience" grills — ideal for packing in the family car for picnics, camping or even for tailgate parties at the ballpark.

As a result, today's outdoor cook can select from among dozens of different barbecue designs with prices ranging from a few dollars to more than a hundred. With this array of different shapes, sizes and prices, careful selection of your new barbecue can both save you money and enhance your reputation as an outdoor chef.

Analyze Cooking Needs

Here are some guidelines one barbecue manufacturer suggests for prospective barbecue purchasers:

Select the barbecue that best fits your cooking needs. For simple grilling of hot dogs, hamburgers and steaks, an inexpensive table-top model is quite adequate and conveniently portable for traveling. If your outdoor cooking plans are more ambitious, you'll need a larger unit, equipped with hood and motorized spit for roasts and

While durability and performance are the most important qualities, styling has become a new consideration and recently introduced models are designed to complement fashionable patio and deck furniture. In the barbecue fashion spotlight this year is a smart square kettle shape with a trim square pedestal leg.

Often overlooked by buyers is assembly ease. Most barbecues are sold "knocked down" and the purchaser can find himself faced with the prospect of a very late dinner while he fits and tightens dozens of parts and fastenings. One manufacturer has eased this chore by pre-assembling major components at the factory and providing easily-handled hood fasteners and leg sockets.

Check Fire Adjustment

Fire adjustment is critical for any kind of barbecue cooking. The distance from the fire to the grill determines cooking temperatures. Check carefully for the amount of adjustment provided and the operating ease of the adjustment mechanism. Most ideal is a design that adjusts the position of the firepan rather than the grill to a number of preset cooking positions.

Hoods will add to the cost of basic barbecue units, but they perform useful functions. They reflect heat, a necessity for roasting, and they shelter food wagon models are removable and fire from the wind.

Once considered extras, spits, double grills are sized to fit in the kitchen sink or dishwasher for easy cleanup. Line With Foil Be sure you have the useful, nearly essential accessories for barbecuing. Spatula and fork with extra-long handles are necessary items while an extra-heavy apron and asbestos gloves will protect clothing and hands. You'll find a bulb-type clothes sprinkler or water pistol handy for dousing cooking flare-ups and a sash-size paint brush can't be beat for applying barbecue sauce.

Finally, take care of your barbecue and it will repay you with the fun and flavor of tasty outdoor meals. A tarpaulin or heavy plastic cover can be purchased to protect the unit while left outdoors. To prolong cooking life, line the inside with aluminum foil. It simplifies cleaning and increases cooking efficiency by reflecting heat.

Dear Ample: A wife who locks her husband out of the bedroom gives him a peachy excuse to try other doors. Don't do it.

You and your friend should have laughed off the adolescent comments. Nothing is so disarming as laughter. Any idiot knows it takes more than spectacular measurements to make a marriage work. The best evidence is Hollywood. Check the marital records of most of those over-endowed dolls and you'll see what I mean.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I cried when I read the letter from the woman who saved coupons for years and bought the bride and groom a complete set of silver only to have the snippy bride dump the gift — chest and all, right in her living room — because she learned it had been purchased with coupons and not cash.

Eighteen years ago I was an assistant dietician in a hospital. When I announced my engagement, the kitchen help went to the supervisor and said they wanted to buy me the finest toaster money could buy. They asked that the price of the toaster be deducted from their paychecks weekly, until the day of my wedding. The supervisor suggested that they save coupons because she knew that the very finest toaster could be obtained in that manner. They took her advice.

Two years ago my children saved their money to buy me a new toaster for Mother's Day. When I explained the significance of the old toaster they said, "No wonder it has been kept so shiny and bright through the years. They must have loved you a great deal — and you must have loved them, too."

Can money buy that, Ann? — Newark Memories

LBJ Withdrawal Stuns, Baffles Leaders of Both Parties

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Fox Cities Democrats and Republicans were stunned but had mixed reactions today to President Johnson's bombshell announcement he will not seek or accept his party's nomination in 1968.

"I couldn't believe it!" exclaimed Mrs. Marilyn Taylor, 59 Bellaire Ct., chairman of the Outagamie County Democratic Party and head of the Johnson for President Committee.

"When I heard the president's statement last night I didn't know what to think at first," she added.

Mrs. Taylor was one of several leaders and active members of both parties — and boosters of presidential candidates — interviewed by The Post-Crescent.

"I received telephone calls far into the night from other party members and Johnson supporters who also expressed disbelief," Mrs. Taylor commented.

Asked what the general reaction was from those she talked to, Mrs. Taylor added her feeling also when she declared, "Most people feel that President Johnson put the welfare of the country and peace above his own political future."

Mrs. Taylor said she felt President Johnson had given "a great speech."

She thought it could bring the North Vietnamese to the peace table and that President Johnson would unify the country.

McCarthy Hurt

At one time Mrs. Taylor was a member of the National Concerned Democrats — a group originally formed to press for a war de-escalation—but she resigned when it became a tool to dump Johnson.

What effect Johnson's move will have on Richard Nixon's GOP presidential drive Mrs. Taylor could not speculate.

However, on the other side of the political fence it was Mrs. Taylor's opinion that chances of U. S. Senator Eugene McCarthy for the Democratic Party had been hurt.

Mrs. Taylor thought U. S. Senator Robert Kennedy benefited most and would, "probably emerge the winner."

Humphrey Looks Good

But Mrs. Taylor, when reminded that Vice President Hubert Humphrey has been considered heir to the Democratic throne, commented: "I would say Mr. Humphrey looks very good at this time."

Mrs. Taylor said this morning she had not heard from Richard Cudahy, Milwaukee, chairman of the Wisconsin Democratic Party and the head of the state

Johnson for President Committee.

In her capacity as county Democratic Party chairman, Mrs. Taylor said in an official statement:

"President Johnson will be devoting all of his time to our country and to show that we, as Americans support him in this endeavor, I would urge Wisconsin citizens to give the President an overwhelming vote at the polls Tuesday."

Another long-time Democrat and co-chairman of the McCarthy for President Committee in Outagamie County took an altogether different view of the Johnson decision.

"I am very happy he's decided not to run," declared Les Balliet, 515 W. Fifth St., who is also a former county Democratic Party chairman.

Decision Forced

"I think his (Johnson's) decision was forced by both McCarthy and Kennedy," Balliet said.

"Johnson knew he was going to get a real beating in the Wisconsin primary and figures now was the time to get out," Balliet said.

He said the Johnson move for peace was not acceptable to him, adding that the President should have ceased all the bombing Balliet, who in the past has declared his public dislike for the President said he thought the President's peace move represented "only half a gesture."

Balliet said Johnson's dropout helped the candidacy of Senator McCarthy but wouldn't venture a guess on how much.

He conceded it also might benefit Senator Kennedy.

"It's hard to say what will happen between McCarthy and Kennedy in the race," Balliet declared, "I'd say it's a toss-up."

"Nixon has been hurt most," Balliet continued, "He is a hawk just like Johnson."

Balliet said he felt the people

Discuss Effects

Congressmen Split On LBJ Decision

BY FRANCES MC KUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Two prominent Wisconsin congressmen disagreed on the effect President Johnson's announcement not to run would have on the legislative picture for this year.

Eighth Dist. Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, said he hoped "the President will now be able to do what he could not do as a candidate in a split party."

"Mr. Johnson will now be able to take the hard steps which are needed to solve our country's critical problems," Byrnes said. "One of the first things he will be able to do is put our fiscal policy in order by submitting a new austerity budget to replace the political one he gave the Congress in January."

On the other side, 7th Dist. Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Marshfield, chairman of the House Republican Conference, said that as a "lame-duck" president, Johnson would have more difficulty correcting the country's major problems, which are securing peace in Vietnam and cutting government expenditures to a minimum.

Rep. William A. Steiger, R-Oshkosh, said that he was extremely surprised the President made the withdrawal announcement at this time.

"I rather thought the President would decide not to run again, but the timing of his announcement is a mystery to me," he said.

"In the meantime I want to urge voters in the Wisconsin primary tomorrow to cast their ballots in their own party," he said.

The Wisconsin primary has lost some of its significance since neither Sen. Robert Kennedy nor Vice President Hubert Humphrey, who may run, has his name on the ballot.

Prison Inmate Charged in Coin Robbery

Warrant Issued After Identification By Ervin Wanserski

MENASHA—A complaint has been filed charging a man currently imprisoned in Illinois with armed robbery in the $50,000 March 19, 1967, holdup of coin dealer Ervin Wanserski, Dist. Atty. Thomas Fink announced today.

Fink said the complaint has been signed last Thursday by Police Chief Lester Clark but had been kept secret until authorities could trace the suspect, identified as Joseph J. Neary, 28, currently an inmate at Joliet State Prison.

The robbers then loaded the coins into a vehicle parked in the garage at the rear of Wanserski's Grocery Store on Sixth Street and fled.

Extradition Problem

Neary is serving a one to four-year sentence on charges not immediately known here. Fink said local authorities are aiming for a trial as soon as possible, but were uncertain about possible complications in extraditing a man while he is serving a term in a state prison in another state.

Neary is the third person to be charged in the robbery. Previously, Donald R. Peters, 916 Ridge Lane, Appleton, was convicted of transporting some of the stolen coins across state lines into Illinois. Peters is arriving at the scene with serving a 2½-year sentence in a federal prison in Minnesota.

More recently, Lawrence V. Miller, 23, Oshkosh, pleaded guilty to charges of aiding and abetting and conspiracy in the robbery. He is awaiting sentencing, pending the outcome of a pre-sentence investigation that is to include a lie detector test of his denial that he was one of the three armed men inside the Wanserski's Grocery Store during the robbery.

Walkout Is Averted

A temporary extension of the contract between several building trade unions and the Fox Valley Contractors Association has averted a walkout, it was learned today.

The three-year pact expired at midnight.

However, a reliable source said negotiators for the unions and association agreed to the extension for another week or so.

Contracts are now being negotiated for about 3,000 laborers in a 23-county area.

Other unions that deal with the contractors' association have June 1 contract expiration dates.

Space Heater Cause of Fire

Heat, Smoke Damage Small Apartment In Blaze Today

A defective gas space heater was blamed for a fire early this afternoon that caused considerable damage to an apartment in a duplex at 1404 N. Racine St., Appleton firemen, who were called to the scene at 12:10 p.m., said the blaze was discovered by a neighbor. The building is owned by Hazel Englesby, 918 E. Pacific St., and was occupied by Miss Patricia Way and Miss Dorothy Spang, both of whom were at work when the fire broke out.

Fire burned through the kitchen floor and into the kitchen wall, near where the space heater was located. There also was considerable smoke and heat damage to the remainder of the small apartment. The heat was so intense that a television set in the living room partially melted, as did a large collection of records, and a telephone.

Firemen brought the fire under control shortly after they took place Friday night while the family was away.

Kern said one storm window was removed and an attempt made to open the inside window and another storm window was tampered with, but was not removed.

Problems at Courthouse

Question Parking Meter Plan

"Second thoughts" on the proposal to have parking meters installed around the Outagamie County courthouse were expressed this morning by Supv. Russell DeLa Hunt, Kaukauna, DeLaHunt, who made the proposal at a finance committee meeting a week ago, told the executive committee Monday he now thought his proposal may have been "too drastic" and suggested that a reduction in the time limit for parking from the present four-hour zones may be a better solution.

Three Items to be Considered

Board, Teachers Meet Again

Negotiators will return to the bargaining table tonight to consider three items in the 1968-69 Appleton teacher contracts which were not discussed prior to the recent fact-finding hearing.

The items — sabbatical leave, use of para-professionals and extra pay for extra work — were in committee during the Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission (WERC) mediation attempts in February.

Sabbatical leave is periodic leave for teachers who do advanced study and still receive partial or full pay. Para-professionals, or teachers aides, would be used to handle non-teaching duties for elementary teachers to allow them more preparation time, and the extra duties include coaching, noon hall duty and club advising.

Not Negotiated

These items failed to reach the negotiation stage when bargaining teams from the Appleton Education Association

(AEA) and the board of education deadlocked in January on salary, salary structure and summer school remuneration.

After rejecting the final board offer late in January, the AEA petitioned for a fact-finding. A fact finder met with negotiators March 21 and is studying arguments from both sides.

The fact finder — Phillip Marshall, a Milwaukee attorney — indicated his recommendation might not be made for many months.

Negotiations apparently were at a standstill but then the AEA and the board of education made an informal agreement last week to continue negotiations.

The AEA agreed to release teachers from an agreement within the AEA not to sign 1968-69 contracts until negotiations were completed, and the board of education said it would continue to negotiate in good faith and consider the fact-finder's recommendations in the bargaining.

Supt. of Schools William Spears said that he is receiving contracts from teachers within the system. The state law requires the school to offer, or refuse, teachers contracts by March 15 and that they be returned signed, or unsigned, by April 15. The contracts carry a cover clause concerning the outcome of negotiations.

Duluth Police Hold Youth From Appleton

Duluth, Minn. police notified Appleton authorities about 12:10 a.m. today that they are holding a 17-year-old Appleton youth for auto theft.

Details of the incident were not immediately learned. Police were asked to notify the boy's mother here.

Youth Guilty Of Burglary At Kimberly

James F. Palmer, 18, 1400 E. Wisconsin Ave., pleaded no contest and was found guilty this morning of a burglary charge brought following investigation by Kimberly police.

At the request of the boy's attorney, Outagamie County Judge Raymond P. Dohr delayed sentencing until Tuesday morning. The youth is in jail under $2,500 bond.

Kimberly police said the youth was involved in burglarizing Curt and Cleon's Cafe, 109 S. Main St., on March 20. Groceries and a small amount of change was taken from the restaurant.

Little Chute Jaycees To Help in Election

The Little Chute Jaycees will assist the major television networks and wire services in collecting the results of Tuesday's Presidential primary in the Fox River Valley.

The group will report returns from Kaukauna, Little Chute, Vandenberg, Kimberly, Buchanan, Appleton, Center and Greenville.

Favored Proposal

County Judges Urban P. Van Susteren and Raymond Dohr indicated last week that they favored the proposal, but Parnell was out of town and could not be reached for comment.

He said today that Keller's proposal is nothing new, adding that a survey concerning judicial circuits was started some time ago by the Judicial Council, which consists of representatives of the state Senate, Assembly, and judiciary.

No specific recommendation has been made by the council concerning the 10th Judicial Circuit which includes Outagamie, Shawano, Langlade, and Menominee Counties, Parnell said. Past discussion, he said, has included combining Outagamie and Waupaca Counties under one circuit.

Up to Council

Parnell, who emphasized that he did not want to get into an argument over the re-circuiting

Principal 1 of 3 Xavier Teachers Reassigned

Diminishing Ranks of Christian Brothers Reason for Shift

A shortage of members in the Order of Christian Brothers has caused the officials of the Winona Province to withdraw three of the 11 brothers now teaching at Xavier High School, at the end of this school year.

The announcement came from Brother H. Richard, principal, who also has been reassigned as director of student brothers for the Winona, Minn., province of the order.

He will be succeeded as principal by Brother Paul Ostendorf, FSC, presently serving as principal in Fargo, N.D.

Also leaving will be Brother Stephen, assistant principal in charge of the boy's department. Other transfers will leave the Xavier faculty with three fewer brothers. New assignments have not been announced, as yet.

Consolidate Efforts
Reason given for the withdrawal was to allow the order to consolidate its efforts throughout the province.

"As with almost all communities of religious, our order faces the problem of diminishing numbers, due to fewer recruits and an increasing number leaving the religious life," Brother Richard said.

"The superiors feel that re-trenchment now is absolutely necessary in order to maintain morale among their numbers. More brothers will receive specialized training. Work opportunities in apostolates other than education will be made available and the order plans to have a number of younger brothers specialize in religious education," he said.

The Xavier School Board, which received the announcement in a special meeting this weekend, hopes diocesan priests will be appointed to fill the vacancies left by the brothers.

However, this decision will not be made until after the installation of the Most Rev. Aloysius Wycislo, the new bishop of the diocese, who will assume his duties April 16.

Brother Richard's new assignment as director of student brothers will include the supervision of the studies and training of the young men attending St. Mary College, Winona.

Harry Kosloske Retires

Banker Ends Long Career

MENASHA — Harry Kosloske, 65, today is ending a banking career which spans 47 years and includes every position at the Bank of Menasha, from messenger boy to bank president.

His successor will be named at a meeting of the board of directors this afternoon.

The Menasha native started working part time at the bank while he still was a student at Menasha High School in 1921. He moved up to cashier in 1936 and was named president in 1951.

Golf Game
Now that he is retired, Kosloske plans to "take it easy" and "concentrate on my golf game, something I've neglected for the past 15 years." Travel will also enter the picture, he said.

He formerly headed the Twin secure the bachelor of arts and masters of education degrees in preparation for their teaching careers.

Brother Paul, the incoming principal, has been administrator of the Shanley High School, Fargo, for the past five years. Prior to this, he was assistant principal at De La Salle High School, Minneapolis. He holds a masters degree in school administration and English.

City Clearing House and the Winnebago County Banking Association and is currently serving as a director and vice president of the Wisconsin Bankers Association Educational Foundation.

Kosloske is a trustee of the Neenah-Menasha Elks Club, one of the organizers and charter members of the Ridgeway Golf Club, a member of the Knights of Columbus and the Menasha Kiwanis Club.

He and his wife live at 406 Elm St., Menasha.

Kosloske is the father of three daughters and 15 grandchildren. His children include Mrs. Joan Hatzen, Mrs. Nancy Sullivan and Dr. Ann Kosloske, a staff physician at Cincinnati General Hospital.

City Not Opposed to Zoning for Apartment

Plan Commission Reviews Notice on Change for High Rise in Grand Chute

Appleton apparently has no objection to rezoning of 34 acres of property near the city in the Town of Grand Chute for a proposed high-rise apartment development, it was learned today.

When the city plan commission met this morning at the city hall, it had before it a notice from the Outagamie County Board's Zoning Committee of a request for rezoning of land from agricultural to multiple family use.

The matter was before the city commission because it can exercise extraterritorial zoning powers.

The petition for the rezoning was submitted to the county some time ago by Raymond LeVe, an Appleton architect and member of the city plan commission. LeVe did not attend today's meeting.

City and regional planners said they saw no reason for the city to object to the proposed rezoning. However, some questions were raised concerning the town's ability to handle future water and sewer demands.

In other action, the commission:

— Decided to wait 30 days before acting on a request of Rollie Winters to rezone from residential to commercial and light manufacturing property on the south side of Franklin Street about 150 feet west of Richmond Street.

— It will study the city's transportation plan which calls for the inter-connecting of Franklin Street and College Avenue just west of Franklin, in connection with Winter's request.

— Petitioned Outagamie County for street access to Northland Avenue (County Trunk 00) 1,600 feet east of Ballard Road for developing the new industrial park on the city's far northeast side.

Record Vote Expected in Twin Cities

NEENAH-MENASHA — Record turnouts, somewhere around 80 per cent of the registered voters, are expected to be recorded in Neenah and Menasha for Tuesday's presidential primary and mayoral contests.

Some 14,716 persons are registered for the elections and if 80 per cent show up at the polls it'll mean 11,372 votes will be tallied to decide the men to head the city governments.

Besides the presidential primary and the state referendum questions, hot local contests are expected to draw out voters in record numbers.

Neenah Clerk-Comptroller R. V. Hauser predicts about 78 per cent of the registered voters to cast ballots. This compares to 47 per cent in the 1966 mayoral election and 76 per cent in the 1964 elections, which included a presidential primary as well as a mayoral contest.

Menasha Clerk-Comptroller Harry Kind predicts Menasha will have a turnout of about 80 per cent. The last mayoral election in April, 1966, brought out 69 per cent of the voters.

Diplomacy, Invasion Listed

Editors Offer Vietnam Solutions

OSHKOSH — Two assessments of the Vietnam war, both showing disagreement with present American war policy but each offering different solutions for ending the conflict, were presented by two noted American journalists here Saturday.

The event was the Wisconsin Council for Social Studies convention conducted at WSU-O, where Harrison Salisbury, assistant managing editor for The New York Times, and Wayne Thomas, aviation editor for The Chicago Tribune, spoke on "Vietnam and the Integrity of the United States."

While Salisbury recommended negotiations aimed at ending the war, Thomas said it "is going to take a good deal more (American military) effort than we have made up until now" to end the conflict.

Salisbury, sticking largely to the position he took in his book "Behind the Lines — Hanoi," concluded that bombing and other military tactics aimed at stopping North Vietnam were not "going to make those people throw in the sponge."

Ho Chi Minh

If anything, he said, the bombing of the north has driven the people "to supporting Ho Chi Minh more strongly" than they had before the bombing started. He cited the German bombing of Britain during World War II as an example of this same effect.

"We don't seem to have the ability to recall the past and apply it to the present," Salisbury said.

"In my opinion, either they (alternatives such as increased bombing, invasion of the north or further efforts at cutting supply routes from China) are so strong that we can't afford to apply them, or they are too weak to be effective in gaining a military victory," Salisbury said.

Incite Chinese

An invasion of North Vietnam or massive bombardment of Hanoi would also beg for Chinese and Russian military involvement, he said.

"I happen to believe that (diplomacy) would be an effective means not only of bringing the conflict to an end, but of achieving what we really want," in Vietnam, Salisbury said.

Salisbury optimistically saw a negotiated settlement to the Vietnam war as a possible "stepping-stone" to bring about better U. S. relations with Communist China. This, he said, was critical to future world and national security.

The creation of a neutralist block of southeast Asian countries, which Salisbury said would appeal to all world powers including Communist China, would be the first step towards bringing China into the world of nations.

Thomas, like Salisbury, noted the "unconventional" nature of the war effort in Vietnam.

"It is a constant struggle against an enemy that fades away when you're strong, and appears when you are weak," he said, "and it may go on this way if the war effort continues as it has up until now."

But Thomas did not recommend withdrawing from Vietnam, saying that "Whether you like it or not, this is a confrontation with the communist philosophy... (and) you must also recognize that we will have it elsewhere if we don't continue to confront it in Vietnam."

Thomas said the current military situation is "hopeless," and that it is currently being reviewed by top military officials who are opting for more military pressure, possibly an invasion of North Vietnam.

"If things continue as they have," Thomas said, "it is likely that an invasion of the north will be necessary."

He said that tactics such as an invasion have already been well-planned in Washington.

Twin Cities

NEENAH-MENASHA — Record turnouts, somewhere around 80 per cent of the registered voters, are expected to be recorded in Neenah and Menasha for Tuesday's presidential primary and mayoral contests.

Some 14,716 persons are registered for the elections and if 80 per cent show up at the polls it'll mean 11,372 votes will be tallied to decide the men to head the city governments.

Besides the presidential primary and the state referendum questions, hot local contests are expected to draw out voters in record numbers.

Neenah Clerk-Comptroller R. V. Hauser predicts about 78 per cent of the registered voters to cast ballots. This compares to 47 per cent in the 1966 mayoral election and 76 per cent in the 1964 elections, which included a presidential primary as well as a mayoral contest.

Menasha Clerk-Comptroller Harry Kind predicts Menasha will have a turnout of about 80 per cent. The last mayoral election in April, 1966, brought out 69 per cent of the voters.

Appleton Youth Brings Mormonism to Finland

Donating two years of one's youth for church work in a faraway land where people don't speak English may not be an easy task, but it supplies a wealth of memories and experiences. This was expressed by Gary Mills, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Mills, 806 E. Francis St., Appleton, who recently returned from a 2½-year mission to Finland. But, he says, "It's just great to be back."

Gary and his brother, who is presently serving in Sweden, are part of the Mormon Church's program to send volunteer youths into the field. They are supported by their parents during their time in the mission fields. The program, which spans the globe, is familiar to many Appleton people who have been visited by young people engaged in similar work on the local level.

Although Gary spent much time in isolated northern Finland near the Arctic Circle, the 22-year-old volunteer returns with nothing but praise for the people and the country. The summers, scenery, culture, sauna and the northern lights all are interwoven in his story about the life of a missionary. The 1963 Appleton High School graduate returned to Brigham Young University, Salt Lake City, Utah, last week to complete work in his chemistry major. He has completed two years there.

Gary Mills

He volunteered his services to the Church without thinking that it might take him overseas and was quite surprised to find himself assigned to Helsinki in 1965. For eight months he toured the cold north with another missionary. His partner had mastered the language, considered one of the world's most difficult.

Coldest Winter
"It wasn't enough to be in the coldest part on the fringe of the Arctic Circle," Gary recalls. "It also had to be the coldest winter they have had in a long time."

But the cold mission also brought the warm experience of the northern lights and the midnight sun.

"In the winters, the northern lights look like something from space jumping around," Gary explained. He immediately noted the long and short nights common to Finland.

"Around Christmas it was so surprising to see the sun come up just a little and immediately start disappearing, and conversely, in the summer there was constant light, and we had to put something on the windows all night to keep the light out," he said.

The summer, when all the lakes are free of ice and the fields are dotted with flowers, and when the weather is mild, was Gary's favorite time.

"I would like to return just to see the summer again," he added.

Assigned to Headquarters
The youth explained he had been assigned to central Finland during his second year and worked with the mission president in the headquarters in Helsinki for the last 3½ months.

He conceded that initially the task had been great "because public opinion toward the Mormon Church was quite poor, due to misconceptions."

The two major misconceptions, he said, were the Mormon Church was polygamous and non-Christian. "This, of course, is not so much different from the misconception many of my own friends here have," the youth smiled.

He firmly believes, however, that the 140 Mormon missionaries in Finland have done a great deal of work to improve the Finnish impressions of America.

The people, he explained, have very few contacts with Americans, especially outside of Helsinki. Most of their ideas come from movies, which often are misleading, the youth added.

Usual Misconceptions

"There is the usual misconception that everyone is rich and out for fun," he said. "While we were there, we did not smoke nor drink nor date, and these qualities won us many friends, and hopefully, improved the picture of the American youth," Gary said.

He cited an example of the Finnish people thinking the Mormon Church was the state church in America.

The Mormon Church has a Finnish membership of about 3,000. A great increase was experienced the past year when three times as many people were baptized as the year before.

Twelve new chapels were constructed last year, which, though small, illustrate that inroads are being made into a country where Lutheranism has been the state religion for hundreds of years.

Gary can look back at the Nordic country and know his two years of dedicated and difficult labor were not wasted.

Provide On-Job Training Under Federal Funding

MADISON — On-the-job training will be provided for 100 unemployed or underemployed Wisconsin residents through two programs approved under the Manpower Development and Training Act by the United States Department of Labor.

The Wisconsin Cannery and Freezers Association will receive $48,793 in MDTA funds to train 50 persons as apprentice-entry maintenance mechanics in canneries and frozen food plants. Total cost of the program, which will last for a year, is estimated at $56,625.

The Wisconsin Power Equipment Retailers Association will receive $46,611 for a one-year program to train 50 persons as apprentice-entry farm equipment service mechanics.

Both programs are designed to qualify trainees for apprenticeships in the occupations involved. Training will begin in state vocational schools, followed by on-the-job instruction in businesses of participating members of the associations.

Both associations have conducted previous successful MDTA programs. The contracts were negotiated by the Labor Department's Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training.

"If there were any place to banish this sorry lot, the nation would be that much better off," he said in a recent talk to the association's greater Atlanta chapter.

NOTICE OF REFERENDUM ELECTION

APRIL 2, 1968

STATE OF WISCONSIN } ss.
Outagamie County }

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that at an election to be held in the several towns, wards, villages and election districts of the State of Wisconsin, on the first Tuesday of April, A.D., 1968, being the Second day of said month, the following proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of Wisconsin, having been approved by two successive legislatures, will be submitted to a vote of the people pursuant to law:

Jt. Res. Nos 135 and 965.

Deposited April 26 and December 26, 1967

Nos. 22 and 56, 1967

A JOINT RESOLUTION

To amend article VII, section 24 of the constitution, relating to the retirement and eligibility for office and service after retirement of supreme court justices and circuit judges.

WHEREAS, at the general session of the legislature in the year 1965 an amendment to the constitution was proposed (by 1965 senate joint resolution 36) and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the 2 houses, which amendment reads as follows:

"(Article VII) Section 24. No person seventy years of age or over may take office as a supreme court justice or circuit judge. No person may take or hold such office unless he is licensed to practice law in this state and has been so licensed for five years immediately prior to his election or appointment. No supreme court justice or circuit judge may serve beyond the end of the month in July 31 following the date on which he attains the age of seventy, but any such justice or judge may complete the term in which he is serving or to which he has been elected when this section takes effect. Any person retired under the provisions of this section may, at the request of the chief justice of the supreme court, serve temporarily as a circuit judge and shall be compensated as the legislature provides. This section shall take effect on July first following the referendum at which it is approved. A person who has served eight or more years as a supreme court justice or circuit judge may serve temporarily, on appointment by the chief justice of the supreme court or by any associate justice designated by the supreme court, as a judge of a circuit court, under such general laws as the legislature may enact."; and

WHEREAS, at the general session of the legislature in the year 1967 this amendment received second consideration approval as 1967 senate joint resolution 13; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the senate, the assembly concurring, That the adoption and concurrence in the present joint resolution shall supersede the adoption and concurrence in 1967 senate joint resolution 13 by this legislature; and, be it further

Resolved, That the foregoing amendment be submitted to a vote of the people at the election to be held on the first Tuesday of April 1968 and if a majority of the voters voting thereon approve this amendment, it shall become a part of the constitution of this state; and, be it further

Resolved, That the questions by which the foregoing constitutional amendment is submitted to the voters for ratification shall be as follows:

"I. Shall Section 24 of Article VII of the Constitution be amended to provide a uniform annual retirement date for Supreme Court Justices and Circuit Judges of July 31st following attainment of retirement age, instead of the month of attaining retirement age? (Note — Supreme Court Justices and Circuit Judges now must retire at the end of the month of attaining retirement age. A "yes" vote on this amendment would provide a uniform retirement date of July 31st following attainment of retirement age for all such justices and judges and would allow time for calling an April election to choose a successor thereby effecting the transition to a new judge during the summer.)

II. Shall Section 24 of Article VII of the Constitution be amended to permit any person who has served eight or more years as a Justice of the Supreme Court or as a Judge of the Circuit Court to serve temporarily on appointment by the Chief Justice as a Judge of a Circuit Court under the general laws enacted by the legislature? (Note—Supreme Court Justices and Circuit Judges now must serve until compulsory retirement age to be eligible to serve temporarily on appointment by the Chief Justice as a Circuit Court Judge. If this amendment is adopted, a justice or judge leaving office prior to compulsory retirement age would be eligible for such temporary appointment if he has served eight years thereby reducing the need of creating additional courts.)"

EXPLANATION

Effect of ratification. I. "Supreme Court Justices and Circuit Judges now must retire at the end of the month of attaining retirement age. A "yes" vote on this amendment would provide a uniform retirement date of July 31st following attainment of retirement age for all such justices and judges and would allow time for calling an April election to choose a successor thereby effecting the transition to a new judge during the summer."

II. "Supreme Court Justices and Circuit Judges now must serve until compulsory retirement age to be eligible to serve temporarily on appointment by the Chief Justice as a Circuit Court Judge. If this amendment is adopted, a justice or judge leaving office prior to compulsory retirement age would be eligible for such temporary appointment if he has served eight years thereby reducing the need of creating additional courts."

Deposited May 10, 1967

No. 25, 1967

A JOINT RESOLUTION

To amend article VIII, section 10 of the constitution, relating to appropriations for acquiring, preserving and developing the forests of the state.

WHEREAS, at the regular session of the legislature in the year 1965 an amendment to the constitution was proposed, by Senate Joint Resolution 28, and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the 2 houses, which amendment reads as follows:

"(Article VIII) Section 10. The state shall never contract any debt for works of internal improvement, or be a party in carrying on such works; but whenever grants of land or other property shall have been made to the state, especially dedicated by the grant to particular works of internal improvement, the state may carry on such particular works and shall devote thereto the avails of such grants, and may pledge or appropriate the revenues derived from such works in aid of their completion. Provided, that the state may appropriate money in the treasury or to be thereafter raised by taxation for the construction or improvement of public highways or the development, improvement and construction of airports or other aeronautical projects or the acquisition, improvement or construction of veterans' housing or the improvement of port facilities. Provided, that the state may appropriate moneys for the purpose of acquiring, preserving and developing the forests of the state; but there shall not be of the moneys appropriated under the authority of this section in any one year an amount not to exceed two-tenths of one mill of the taxable property of the state as determined by the last preceding state assessment may be raised by a tax on property." Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the senate, the assembly concurring, That the foregoing amendment to the constitution is agreed to by this legislature; and, be it further

Resolved, That the foregoing proposed amendment be submitted to a vote of the people at the election to be held on the first Tuesday in April 1968, and if a majority of the voters voting thereon approve this amendment, it shall become a part of the constitution of the state; and, be it further

Resolved, That the question of the ratification of the foregoing amendment be stated on the ballot as follows:

"Shall section 10 of article VIII of the constitution be amended to permit additional appropriations for state-wide forestry purposes when deemed necessary by the legislature from sources other than a tax on property?"

EXPLANATION

Effect of ratification. Sec. 10, Art. VIII. of the Wisconsin Constitution, prohibits the state from incurring debts for, or otherwise participating in, works of internal improvement. Exceptions to this general prohibition are made for certain works such as highways, airports, veterans housing and port facilities. The section also contains a specific authorization for the state to appropriate money for the purpose of acquiring, preserving and developing the forests of the state, as long as the amount appropriated in any one year does not exceed two-tenths of one mill of the taxable property in the state. If approved by a majority of votes cast, this amendment would make the annual two-tenths of one mill limitation applicable only to money raised through property taxes. Additional amounts may be appropriated for forest purposes, as long as such additional funds are derived from sources other than taxes on property.

Resolved, That the question of the ratification of the foregoing amendment be stated on the ballot as follows:
"Shall ARTICLE IV, section 11 of the constitution be amended to permit the legislature to meet in regular session oftener than once in two years?"

EXPLANATION

Effect of ratification. "At present, the Wisconsin Constitution states that the legislature shall meet at such time as shall be provided by law once in two years unless convened by the governor in special session for special purposes. If a majority of the electors voting on this question approve the amendment, the legislature would be permitted to meet in regular session more often than once in two years."

The Appleton Fire Department will put a new van-type rescue vehicle into use soon. The 1968 model vehicle at right, affords much more interior room than the 1962 station wagon, at left, that has been used for rescue work. (Post-Crescent Photo)

New Rescue Vehicle Being Equipped by Fire Department

Appleton firemen have nearly service within the next week or those used by large city police, completed equipping a new rescue vehicle that will be put into service within the next week or those used by large city police, and fire departments for rescue work.

The van-type vehicle replaces a 1962 station wagon that has been used for fire department rescue operations. A 1965 station wagon also has been used until it was badly damaged in an accident last October.

Advantages in Track Firemen pointed out that the truck offers several advantages over the station wagon, for rescue squad work. The van has considerably more interior room. Work space in the rear compartment is 98 inches long in the van and 91 in the wagon, and the van is nearly three inches wider in the rear compartment.

The van has swing-open rear doors, while firemen had to contend with a cumbersome fold-down tailgate on the wagon. The new vehicle has a large, eight-cylinder engine, compared to a six-cylinder engine in the wagon.

Prison Trend Reversed

Narcotics, Draft Violators Raise Convict Total, Lower Average Age

By STEPHEN M. AUG Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sharp increases in narcotics and draft-law convictions have helped boost the federal prison system's population while lowering the average convict's age.

Officials said the prison system experienced last year the sharpest increase of youth commitments in its history. The average age of the prison population dropped from 29.5 years in 1966 to 28.5 years at the end of 1967.

The jump in the federal system's over-all population reversed a five-year decline.

Prison officials cited as another reason for the jump in the prison population the fact that judges have been handing out longer sentences.

Draft-Law Violators
A Bureau of Prisons survey of its 35 institutions during a three-week period last month showed there were 781 convicted draft-law violators in the federal prison system at the time.

An official said 632 of these on. Also, the new vehicle has power steering and brakes and an automatic transmission.

Firemen have done much of the work of getting the new truck ready for rescue service. They revamped the rear compartment to accommodate special equipment. They also built in a folding "Jump-seat" for the squad attendant so he can sit next to the stretcher.

The truck is equipped with twin revolving red lights and two spot lights. The rescue squad will keep the station wagon for a stand-by vehicle.

had told prison case workers they tried to avoid the draft for religious reasons. Of these, about 300 claimed to be members of the Jehovah's Witnesses sect who did not report to non-combat service in lieu of military service.

The system received 604 draft-law violators in the 12-month period that ended last June 30, compared with 261 in the previous 12-month period.

Youthful Crime

Although prison officials did not have available figures to show the increase in bank robbers and narcotics violators, they pointed to statistics from the Administrative Office of the United States Courts to show that youthful crime has been increasing sharply.

The office reported that during the last six months of 1967 the federal courts had experienced a 21.5 per cent increase in Selective Service Act violation cases begun compared with the last six months of 1966.

During the same period the number of cases commenced for narcotics violations were up 22.1 per cent, robbery up 27.2 per cent and homicides 24.1 per cent.

Peak in 1962

Prison officials said there are about 19,893 inmates in the federal prison system, compared with 19,322 last year. The number had been dropping since it peaked at 24,309 in 1962.

The average length of sentence for federal prisoners during the one-year period that ended last June 30 was 39 months, compared with 35.4 months for the same period that ended June 30, 1966.

Figures from the Court Administrative Office show also that as of last Dec. 31 the number of persons on parole had dropped. The probation case load, the office said, was 37,369 last Dec. 31, down 479—or 3 per cent—from where it stood June 30, 1967, and down nearly 2,000 cases from the figure for Dec. 31, 1966.

Persons placed on parole during the last six months of 1967 numbered 2,624, down 21 per cent from the same period in 1966. The number of persons under mandatory release totaled 1,336, down 14 per cent.

Dairymen Oppose Beer On Nutritional Basis

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The Florida dairy industry takes issue with a St. Petersburg juvenile court judge who advocated allowing 18-year-olds to drink beer. A dairy spokesman said the milk men were concerned about neither the morality involved nor any possible cut into milk sales but rather the question of nutrition.

Auto Hit by Another Car Injures Girl

OSHKOSH — A 19-year-old Appleton girl was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital in Appleton early Sunday morning after an accident involving two cars and a pedestrian on State 114, about three miles west of Neenah.

Constance M. Van Rooy, 1704 S. Sanders St., was listed with head and left leg injuries at the hospital after she was struck by an auto while walking along State 114.

Winneshago County authorities said the incident occurred when an auto driven by Michael T. Neuman, 18, 336 Pershing St., Appleton, crossed into the left lane and collided head-on with an auto driven by Gregory V. Gorst, 19, of 773 W. Cecil St., Neenah.

Authorities said that Neuman then backed away from the Gorst vehicle and continued east on 114 until his car slammed into the rear of an auto driven by Paul J. Vanderheiden, 18, of 500 E. Brewster St., Appleton.

Vanderheiden's auto was then shoved ahead and hit Miss VanRooy. She was walking east. Neuman was charged with driving on the wrong side of the highway.

Authorities listed damage to each of the three autos at over $100.

Neenah Man Ordered Held in Beating of 17-Year-Old Daughter

OSHKOSH — A 42-year-old Neenah man was arraigned this morning on a charge of battery involving the beating of his 17-year-old daughter on Saturday.

Victor A. Wiese, route 1, was ordered held on $200 bond by Judge James V. Sitter of Winneshago County Court Branch 3. The judge set preliminary examination for April 9.

According to the complaint, Wiese was charged with beating and causing bodily harm to Kathy Wiese at their home on Vinland Center Road, Saturday.

were "fed up with war and are clamoring for peace".

He added that if peace were achieved, then the country could concentrate on solving its domestic problems.

"I think it was President Johnson's finest hour," commented Dr. David Grunwaldt, Kaukauna, chairman of the Outagamie County Republican Party.

No Cross-Over

"At first I couldn't believe it when I heard the President's words," Dr. Grunwaldt said. He felt the President was sincere in the action he took.

At the same time, Dr. Grunwaldt cautioned that Republicans in the county should not attempt to engage in any cross-over voting in Tuesday's primary.

"A cross-over would demonstrate nothing," Dr. Grunwaldt added.

Dr. Grunwaldt said the Johnson withdrawal would probably strengthen the position of Nixon in capturing the GOP presidential nomination.

War Policy

He decided to comment on what he thought might happen to McCarthy and Kennedy. "That's up to the Democrats to decide," Dr. Grunwaldt said. Dr. Grunwaldt said Nixon would be making a major war policy address and did not think the GOP frontrunner's Vietnam War stance was parallel with that of the President's as has been suggested during the campaigning.

Arnold E. Grummer, 63 Bel-laire Court, chairman of the County Nixon for President Committee, said he was "extremely surprised and had not anticipated" the President's taking himself out of the political picture.

"I would say the action has probably added confusion to already confused issue," Grummer declared.

Nixon Helped

On Nixon, it was Grummer's opinion his candidacy would not be affected one way or the other. Grummer felt Johnson's action would reduce the cross-over vote Tuesday.

Commenting on the compromise bombing halt, Grummer said it would help Nixon's position because he would now be left with a smaller area to concentrate on.

He noted that the U.S. had bombing pauses in the past.

It was Grummer's feeling that President Johnson acted wisely in general, and responded to heavy anti-war and political pressures.

Grummer also opined that Johnson had "taken the steam out of the McCarthy and Kennedy campaigns".

LITTLE CHUTE — Two men were injured and damage was estimated at $1,200 in a two-car crash at E. Main Street and Rose Hill Road about 12:45 a.m. Sunday.

Anthony Domres, 54, of 421 Whitney St., Kaukauna, complained of chest pains.

According to police, Vandehey was westbound on East Main and Domres, traveling east, attempted to make a left turn onto Rose Hill Road when the collision occurred.

The injured men were taken by squad cars to the Kaukauna Community Hospital.

Girl Found on Porch Was Tipsy, Police Maintain

A 16-year-old girl, found face-down on her doorstep early Sunday morning, apparently was highly intoxicated, according to Appleton police.

Authorities were summoned to the north side home about 6 a.m. Sunday after a woman said she looked out her front window and saw a young person lying face down near the house across the street.

Police found the girl "curled up" on her front doorstep. The girl was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by ambulance.

Her parents said that she had been babysitting, and called home about 2 a.m. Sunday, saying she would be home about 3:30 a.m. Police learned that she had been drinking with two boys at a cottage south of Appleton. She could recall little of the night's events, said police. Investigation is continuing.

Woman Sustains Cuts When Auto Rams Into Tree

According to the police, James Kreikamp, 23, of 822 E. Kimberly Ave., was traveling east on Kimberly Avenue when his vehicle left the road in the 800 block and hit the tree. The driver told police the steering mechanism failed.

Damage to the auto was estimated at $1,800.

Stolen Car Is Involved in Hit-Run Crash

A car stolen in Appleton Saturday afternoon was involved in a hit and run accident on U.S. 10, near Outagamie County Trunk A, just west of Appleton.

Pat Schultz, 127½ E. College Ave., reported to police at 4:30 p.m. Saturday that her 1953 auto was stolen while it was parked at a W. Wisconsin Avenue laundromat.

Ten minutes later, county police reported that the car was involved in a hit and run accident with a car driven by Ronald P. Engelbert, 21, Stevens Point. His 1967 auto was damaged.

The stolen car was abandoned near the accident scene. It has little damage, police said.

Buckley Makes Request

Ethics Code Urged For City Officials

Mayor George Buckley, concerned over land transactions involving former city officials, has requested a citizens' committee to look into the matter of a code of ethics for elected and appointed officials.

Buckley wrote a letter to Richard Van Sistine, chairman of the Mayors Citizen Advisory Committee, which will soon appoint a seven-member group to study local government operation, including whether aldermen should serve full-time or part-time.

"I respectfully urge you to request this subcommittee to look into the matter of a code of ethics for all elected and appointed city officials of the City of Appleton," Buckley told Van Sistine.

At a meeting last week, Buckley said he objected to two of the 19 persons suggested for membership on the special subcommittee. They were among some former city officials involved in what a north-west side alderman has alleged were questionable land deals.

Woehler and County Board Chairman Sylvester Esler were instructed to contact neighboring counties on procedures used in conducting county board meetings. Supv. Ralph Schwartz, Appleton, had requested at the last board meeting that a study be made for use of a formal agenda at board meetings.

Esler also appointed DeLa Hunt, Babbitt and Joseph De Bruin to begin preliminary planning for the Wisconsin County Boards Association convention to be held in Appleton Sept. 23-25.

Open Letter to the Voters of Appleton

Two years ago, George Buckley promised the people of Appleton that, if elected Mayor, he would bend every effort to give Appleton leadership, direction, and economical government. He was elected. Since that time, we have made solid progress. Mayor Buckley has renewed industry's confidence in Appleton to the point where it is now moving in, not out — meaning growth, jobs, and additional revenue.

Mayor Buckley has been a credit to our community. He has let the chips fall where they may in an effort to give us the leadership that he promised in his campaign two years ago. My hat is off to any man who will go straight down the road and fight to make his promises good.

Two years ago we dumped a lot of problems in Mayor Buckley's lap. The previous administration had committed us to Appleton East High School, College Avenue redevelopment, and Soldier's Square parking ramp to name a few. These problems and others were met head on. As a result of this leadership, we presently have more harmony in the City Council and with the County Board than we have had in many years.

I also support Mayor Buckley's approach to education. Hire the most competent educators, pay them well, and give them good down-to-earth schools to teach in. An education loses much effect if we obligate ourselves and our children to paying for it for the rest of our lives.

When the 1968-1972 term begins, we will have a "clean house" at City Hall. No issues have been side-tracked and none have been railroaded through for political expediency during election time.

Mayor Buckley has kept his word to the people of Appleton. I appreciate progressive, economical, no-nonsense city government and am supporting George Buckley at the polls on Tuesday. I hope that you will too.

Globetrotters Blend of Sports, Showmanship

Magicians of Basketball, Vaudeville
Acts Appearing at Bay Arena April 10

Time was when the Harlem Globetrotters, coming to the Veterans Memorial Arena, Green Bay, Wednesday night, April 10, belonged exclusively to the world of sports.

Time was when the Magicians of Basketball played the game according to all the rules and regulations pertaining thereto, competing against the best in the business, from college all-stars to world's professional champions.

That day has long since passed. With gimmicks, stunts, juggling and zany antics, created by accident, design or necessity, the Trotters have produced a show that has moved into the world of entertainment revolving around a basketball game.

Top Vaudeville Acts

That is what the Trotters will bring to the Arena; that and five variety pre-game and half-time vaudeville acts picked from the big circuses and television and the top-name night spots from Las Vegas to Miami; from New York to London.

Heading the list of performers who will appear here is Lottie Brunn, whose speciality is juggling. Miss Brunn for several years was a center ring attraction in the Ringling Circus.

Before she was selected to make this season's tour with the Globetrotters she appeared in such television productions as the Ed Sullivan show and Hollywood Palace.

Family Trio

An accompanying act is that of the Wainwrights — Wayne and his wife Carol, and their 6-year-old son, Shane. They are professional acrobats and trampoline performers. Like Miss Brunn, they also have played in the circuses of the nation and at fairs, conventions and amusement parks.

Billy Raye, who will bring his combination juggling and unicycle act to the court, like the others, has "been around" in the states and Europe.

Because of a tight schedule, the Trotters will stage just one performance at the Arena and then move on to the Milwaukee Arena.

Actress Shirley Booth Returns to Broadway In 'Desk Set' Revival

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Shirley Booth will return to Broadway in September after an absence of eight years to star in a revival of William Marchant's comedy, "The Desk Set."

She will repeat her role as the head librarian in a broadcasting company who matches wits with a computer expert trying to replace her and her staff with an electronic brain.

Miss Booth, who spent much of the eight years in the "Hazel" television series, said she chose the revival because "the play is not a bit dated."

Besides, she said, she had read a dozen scripts but could not find "anything clean and wholesome."

Studio Contract Turns Out for Robert Wagner

Old-Fashioned, Said Veteran Actors;
Now He's Star of 'To Catch a Thief'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — His fellow actors shook their heads

three years ago upon hearing that Robert Wagner signed an exclusive contract with Universal. It seemed to them like something out of the dark ages.

Wagner has now demonstrated the wisdom of his move. He is star of a new television series, "It Takes a Thief," which has proven its strength by being renewed for a full ABC season.

The exclusive player contract had virtually disappeared at the film studios until Wagner signed his deal. Thirty years ago, nearly every important performer was tied to a studio, but economic reverses forced the companies to trim their contract lists until they finally were non-existent. All actors became free-lancers, and the successful ones preferred it that way. It meant bigger salaries and more independence.

Same Route Again

That's why it seemed strange when Wagner signed his Universal deal. After all, he had been that route before. He received the full treatment at 20th Century-Fox in the 1950s. His most famous role was as Prince Valiant, which he somehow survived. After leaving Fox, he free-lanced with fair success.

"But after I got back from making some pictures in Europe, I had a rough time," he admitted. "I knew I had matured as a performer, but I couldn't get the studios to see it. I sat around for almost two years, except for the time I went East and played 'Mister Roberts' in summer stock. Then came 'Harper.'"

Almost Last Role

Wagner sought the role of the hedonistic playboy, but studio boss Jack L. Warner gave an unquotable reply in the negative — "He remembered how I convinced Natalie to leave Warner's," said the actor, referring to his former wife, Natalie Wood. "Fortunately Paul Newman went to bat for me, and I got the role."

It proved crucial to his career, breaking him out of the colorless image he had accumulated. His telephone started ringing again, and among the callers were the executives who run Universal.

"They are very persuasive gentlemen," Wagner conceded. "They told me they wanted to take over some young players and use them exclusively in all fields—TV series, features, television features, guest shots. I would be paid for each, with a guaranteed minimum per year. So far my earnings have exceeded the minimum each year."

Trouble: Big Leak in Security

BY TV SCOUT

9-10 (Channel 5) — There's a double dose of duplicity on 1 Spy in an exceptional script even for this well-produced series. George Voslovec stars as a Russian defector being escorted by two American agents, Dane Clark and Paul Richards. An attempt is made on the life of the Russian and it becomes immediately apparent that there is a big security leak.

6:30-7:30 (Channels 11-9) — There isn't much to distinguish this last of the Cowboy in Africa series before it starts its reruns and eventual demise in September. The plot revolves around a cross-bow used by a poacher as a trap. John Henry gets nipped by the poisoned tip of an arrow and will die quickly if he does not get the antidote which only the poacher has. (c)

6:30-7:30 (Channels 2-7) — The principal Gunsmoke problem of the past season pops up again — harsh characters in a harsh situation presented in a watered down form. Forrest Tucker and Robert Wilke are featured as "cattle barons" who meet in Dodge City for a showdown after their life-long feud. (C)

7-8 (Channel 5) — Flip Wilson and Barbara Feldon star on Rowan & Martin's Laugh-In with the "Get Smart!" girl very funny being interviewed as the poster girl for Planned Parenthood.

7:30-8 (Channel 2) — Jack Benny stars in a classic episode of The Lucy Show made so by adapting a classic Benny gag. It is his bank vault. Lucy wants

Jack to put his money in her bank and he agrees to only if she can provide a better vault than he already has. (C)

8-9:30 (Channels 2-7) — The Andy Griffith Show reaches the end of its line. Next week its reruns begin and in September Mayberry R.F.D. takes over. The star of that series, Ken Berry, is again on hand as are three additional regulars. Farmer Sam has invited an old Army buddy from Italy to help him till his soil. When he arrives he is accompanied by his exotic sister and elderly father.

8-9 (Channel 5) — A fairly familiar story gets a big boost from an excellent cast on The Danny Thomas Hour's presentation of "Fame is a Four-Letter Word." Carolyn Jones is believable in the role of a crusading press agent trying desperately to save her client (Richard Conte) from the clutches of a publisher (Barry Sullivan) who specializes in scandal. Other stars are Geraldine Brooks as Conte's wife; Aldo Ray, the publisher's strong-arm man, and Michael Rennie as a columnist whose help she tries to enlist. (C)

8:30-9 (Channels 2-7) — Family Affair has one of the biggest and noisiest casts in its history tonight in an episode that starts off quite quietly. It's about a baby sitter who becomes ill and is replaced by her father. (C)

9-10 (Channels 11-9) — The Big Valley pulls out an historic figure, a daring bandit of days gone by named Joaquin Murrieta, believed killed but never confirmed. A new ranch hand on the Barkley spread (Played well by Fabrizio Mioni) is suspected of being the legendary badman and naturally the local authorities see a feather in their caps by bringing him to justice. (C)

Vote for Respect, Dignity and Proven Ability

Yes, champions DO come back. This was demonstrated by Clarence A. Mitchell in the March primary. Helping them come back, of course, is the encouragement and the backing of the people who believe in their superior ability . . . in Clarence A. Mitchell's case, the voters of Appleton.

But a game is never over until the final whistle and now, Clarence Mitchell requires one further proof of our respect for him as a man and citizen, and our faith in him as a past, present and future leader. Faith and respect inspired by knowledge of his vigorous participation in the following services for the community he and his family love best:

- Mayor of Appleton — 1958-1966.
- Alderman of First Ward for 9 Years.
- County Supervisor for First Ward for 9 Years.
- President of City Council — 1953-1954.
- President of Both Policemen's and Fireman's Pension Boards.
- Secretary of Appleton Board of Health.
- Fund Raising Campaigning for Appleton Hospitals.
- Plamann School Project.
- Division Chairman of United Community Services Fund Drive.
- President and Board of Directors of Northside Kiwanis Club.
- President of the American Legion Convention Corporation — 1968 Convention in Appleton.
- And More!
- Served on Education Committee to Locate a University of Wisconsin in the Appleton Area.
- Is a Charter Member and Past President of the Outagamie-Winnebago Muscular Dystrophy Association.
- And More!

Mayors must be able to play in the big leagues, and this kind of participation is not new to Clarence A. Mitchell who . . .

- Was Lt. Governor of Kiwanis International.
- Participated in the United States Conference of Mayors and National League of Cities.
- Served on Board of Directors of Association of Wisconsin Planners.

Respect of people, like love and friendship, must flow both ways. Thus it is that Clarence A. Mitchell has not only earned the deep respect of government, civic and social leaders and officials at the national, state, regional and local levels, but his mutual feeling for these and the leaders to come is equally deep and sincere. Mitchell has proven his ability to work with peoples at all levels and positions regardless of their personal and/or political beliefs.

Williams Play Just Misses Its Potential

Critics See Weak, Theatrical Ending Which mars Drama

AP Drama Critic

NEW YORK (AP) — Tennessee Williams wanders irresolutely among some of his favorite dramatic anxieties in "The Seven Descents of Myrtle," which premiered recently at Broadway's Barrymore theater.
His facility at verbal imagery and carefully measured humor is strong. But the promise of early scenes that this may be a play to remember dissipates into merely crafty and transparent lurid theatricality.

Three oddly-assorted characters are brought together amid fantastic circumstances in a remote corner of the author's favorite Dixie Delta storyland. As noise - machines create off-stage menace of a river cresting to flood peak, Brian Bedford and Estelle Parsons arrive on scene. He portrays a weakening in terminal defeat by tuberculosis. She enacts a carnival trollop. Just married on a TV program for reasons too complex to narrate here, they've come down from Memphis to reclaim the plantation left our nonhero by an overdolting mom.
Plot Thickeners
Melodramatic complications appear in the person of Harry Guardino, the groom's half-breed, half-brother. The sullen, supermale son of the soil tussles throughout the plot to retain the power by which he could eventually inherit the estate.
Miss Parsons, as the forlorn scapegoat in the middle of venomous fraternal struggle for dominance, has the meatiest role. As in the past, Williams has created an imposing portrait of badgered femininity. The actress is superlative in turn-of-gay artifice and wild hysteria.
Guardino hasn't much more than a straight-man part for much of the evening, but confronts Miss Parsons with valiant determination in the obscurely delineated final episode that unfortunately is one of the least effective portions of the script.
The elaborate two-floor domicile setting is by Jo Mielziner. Jose Quintero is the director.
Now that it has arrived, the show at least gives producer David Merrick a new record of eight productions simultaneously on Broadway.

White Sox Snap Phils' Win Streak

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
The National League has parted company with the Washington Senators. It's the best thing that's happened to the National League all spring.

Washington pushed over an unearned run in the eighth inning Sunday and edged the Houston Astros 3-2, completing an 11-game exhibition sweep over National League opposition.

The victory gave the Senators an over-all record of 15-5—best in the exhibition circuit.

Bernie Allen singled in the eighth, moved around to third on two infield outs and scored the winning run on one of three errors committed by Hector Torres, the Astros' rookie shortstop. Ken McMullen delivered the other Washington runs with a homer and sacrifice fly.

Escaped Injury
Brooks Robinson, Baltimore's All-star third baseman, was hit below the left ear by a Steve Blass pitch in the fifth inning of Pittsburgh's 3-1 victory over the Orioles. Robinson, who was wearing an ear flap on his batting helmet, escaped serious injury but will miss tonight's game against the Senators.

Cincinnati pounded the New York Yankees 8-2, scoring seven runs off Mel Stottlemyre in the first three innings. Mel Queen, who blanked New York on two hits through five frames, was the winner.

Tommy Davis' three-run homer and the shutout pitching of Bob Priddy, Bob Locker, Wilbur Wood and Don McMahon led the Chicago White Sox to a 6-0 victory over Philadelphia, ending the Phils' winning streak at five games.

Detroit, Minnesota and California won extra innings struggles.

Pinch Double
The Tigers nipped St. Louis 6-5 in 12 innings. Wayne Comer delivering the tie-breaking run with a pinch double. Mickey Stanley hit a three-run homer.

First British Winner on PGA Tour

Tony Jacklin Wins Tourney

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Not since Ted Ray took the U.S. Open in 1920 had an English golfer won a major American tournament.

Then along came Tony Jacklin, quietly happy Tony Jacklin. A golfer with ice water in the veins—the kind that wins and wins and becomes great.

At the age of 23, Jacklin is a winner with every promise of joining the ranks of the great—Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Ben Hogan, but with no idea of patterning himself after any one of them.

Never Showed It
He said he was nervous, but he never showed it as he faced down Palmer in the final round of the greater Jacksonville Open Sunday. He admitted he utilized "Arnie's Army" as his own battery-charger to a 15-under-par 273 and the $20,000 first money. It was the first time a golfer from England had ever won on the Professional Golfers Association tour.

Even before Jacklin hit the jackpot, Player was calling him potentially the greatest English

Out of Contention
Palmer had dropped out of contention early after starting the day one stroke back of Jacklin. Doug Sanders, who couldn't match his golf strokes to his fire-engine-red wardrobe, faded after holding at least a share of the lead through three rounds. Sanders' 73, with the help of a 40-foot finishing putt, tied him for second at 275 with Don Jan-uary, Gardner Dickinson, Chi-ri Rodriguez and DeWitt Wea-ver Jr. Each collected $6,520.

Palmer was at 276 and Jack Nicklaus, never a contender throughout the 72-hole event, finished 23rd at 280.

Atlanta '500' Crown Goes To Yarborough

Second Major Victory in Row For Veteran Driver

ATLANTA (AP) — Cale Yarborough is on top of the racing world right now with two big victories and $70,000 in winnings this year.

But the onetime Soapbox Derby kid says his fight to get to the top hasn't been easy.

"Lots of times I felt it wasn't worth it and decided to quit," he 29-year-old racing veteran from Timmonsville, S.C., said after winning the Atlanta 500 Sunday.

"But then I'd sleep on it and decide I was just as good as those other guys, and go back at it."

Needs $60,000
Yarborough's perseverance has paid off and the hard-driving blond is in position to become the biggest money-winner ever in one year. He needs about $60,000 to break the record set by Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C.

"I don't know if I can break it, but I've got a real good start," said Yarborough, who averaged 125 miles an hour in winning the 500-mile Atlanta race worth $20,050. It was his second straight Atlanta title.

Yarborough won a duel with another 1968 Mercury driver, Lee Roy Yarborough of Columbia, S.C. They also finished 1-2 at the Daytona 500 a month ago.

Lee Roy won $9,285 in the race, with Donnie Allison of Hueytown, Ala., pocketing $5,365 for third. Charlie Glazco of Georgetown, Ind., was fourth and Darel Dieringer of Charlotte, N.C., was fifth.

76ers, Celts Triumph To Take 3-2 Edges in NBA Playoff Series

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The depleted Philadelphia 76ers have managed to hang onto their five starters, but they had to replace their sparkplug to get moving against the New York Knicks.

Johnny Green, 34 years old and without a playoff game in his National Basketball Association career until nine days ago, provided the spark Sunday as the 76ers ran over the Knicks 123-105 in Philadelphia.

Filling in for hot-shot sixth man Billy Cunningham, who is out with a broken wrist, Green fused a third quarter rally with five points and six rebounds for a 91-80 lead, and the 76ers never looked back.

The victory put the injury-riddled world champion 76ers up 3-2 in this best-of-7 Eastern Division semifinal series with a chance to wrap it up tonight in New York.

"We're in the driver's seat now," said 76er Coach Alex Hannum.

Vets Aid Boston
Boston, expected to meet Philadelphia in the division final playoff after finishing second to the 76ers in regular season play, stood by its old standbys for a similar decisive third quarter that downed Detroit 110-96 in Boston.

The Celtics, also taking a 3-2 lead, can clinch their series in Detroit tonight.

The St. Louis Hawks, their backs against the wall at the Washington University Field House in St. Louis, rebounded to a 129-103 rout over San Francisco and sent that Western Division semifinal back to San Francisco Tuesday night.

Also Need Better Work on Boards, Says Hank Iba

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Adapting to international rules remains the biggest hurdle U.S. Olympic basketball candidates must overcome, according to Coach Henry Iba.

"They have to be more aggressive on that board play," Iba said, "and they don't know how to foul for profit yet."

Iba made his remarks Saturday after the West beat the East 95-88 in the annual college all-star game held this year in conjunction with the Olympic preliminaries.

Both teams, along with the Central and College Division teams of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, which also worked out here last week, went to Albuquerque, N.M., Sunday.

3 Days Practice
The four squads, plus teams from the Amateur Athletic Union, the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, the National Junior College Athletic Association and the Armed Forces, will practice today through Wednesday. They will play three games each in a round-robin competition in the Olympic selection tournament Thursday through Saturday.

The Olympic team of 12 and six alternates is expected to be announced Sunday.

Iba, who is supervising the Olympic workouts, said fouling for profit meant that if a guard saw a player ready to shoot, he should foul him before the shot. Under international rules, when a player is fouled before the shot, the ball is taken out of bounds. When the foul occurs in the act of shooting, two shots are awarded.

Earlier, in the doubles, Connaughton had rolled a 570 as he and partner Joe Fodel of the University of Dayton totaled 1,106 to take fourth place.

Connaughton again will represent the United States in the International Masters in December in Mexico. Last year he won the title against contestants from 29 countries

Opening Pro Soccer Crowds Range From 1,472 to 11,086

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Professional soccer is making a second bid for spectator support this year and early returns are inconclusive.

A crowd of 5,714 in Oakland watched the Clippers defeat the Boston Beacons 2-1 in North American Soccer League action Sunday, but a smallish crowd of 2,662 in San Diego saw the home-town Toros beat Kansas City 3-0.

On Saturday, a whopping crowd of 11,086 attended the game in Atlanta between the Chiefs and the Detroit Cougars, won by the Chiefs 2-1. But in Dallas, only 1,472 were on hand as the Houston Stars blanked the Tornadoes 6-0.

Oakland's victory Sunday came on a fluke goal with four minutes left when Boston forward Erik Dyreborg accidentally bounced the ball off teammate Tom Kelly into his own net.

San Diego's goals came from Eduardo Vava, Mahajl Mesaros and Perez Orta.

THE '68 MASTERS MY PLAN FOR NO. 12 • 155 YDS. PAR 3

THIS IS ONE OF THE TOUGHEST PAR 3'S IN GOLF. THE GREEN IS GUARDED BY RAE'S CREEK IN THE FRONT, AND BY SLOPING TRAPS IN THE REAR. WIND CONDITIONS ARE VERY IMPORTANT AND MOST OFTEN DICTATE THE TYPE OF SHOT THAT I WILL HIT (USUALLY WITH A 6-OR 7-IRON). I NORMALLY TRY TO FADE THE BALL IN... AIMING AT THE LEFT PART OF THE GREEN.

A HOOK PROBABLY WILL GUARANTEE CLEARANCE OF THE CREEK, BUT IT SELDOM WILL STAY ON THE PUTTING SURFACE... AND CHIPPING IS PARTICULARLY DIFFICULT FROM BEHIND THIS GREEN (ESPECIALLY FROM UP ON THE BANK).

Infield Unsettled Hitting Problem Only One of Worries for Yankees This Season

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., 14, returns along with Fred Talbot, 6-8, Steve Hamilton, 2-4, and two former 20-game winners, Steve Barber and Jim Bouton, who'll try to recapture their old magic after several off-years.

The Yankees got three hits. Their fans got the message.

New York's legendary eighth-inning lightning of the 19's and '50s is long gone. The power has been shut off in the Bronx and 1968 looks like another year of pitch, pull and pray for the Yanks—with a little more Go-Go this time around.

The Yankees have been bunt in and running more than ever this spring. Unfortunately, they've been doing very little hitting, despite Manager Ralph Houk's hope for a recharged attack.

Inching from last place in 1966 to ninth last season, the Yankees batted .225 as a team—second lowest in the majors. And they barely reached the 100 home run mark.

Mickey Mantle, shifted from the outfield to first base, drilled 22 homers to take fifth place on the all-time list with a 17-year total of 518. Tom Tresh, hobbled by a knee injury, connected for 14, one more than Joe Pepitone—who had slugged 31 in 1966—and three more than rookie Steve Whitaker. No one else had more than nine.

Mantle's .249 average was the lowest of his career, however. Tresh, .219, Pepitone, .251, Whitaker, .241, and rookie Bill Robinson, .196, failed to provide the outfield punch so long a trademark of Yankee teams.

Horace Clarke led AL second basemen in fielding hit a respectable .272 and stole 21 bases. But third baseman Charlie Smith, .224, shortstop Ruben Amaro, .223, and catcher Jake Gibbs, .233, weren't much help.

Few Changes

The Yankees made few significant changes during the winter. The same cast once more will be counted on to support a hard-pressed pitching staff.

With Smith recovering from a knee operation, the third base job will go, at least temporarily, to either Mike Ferraro or Bob Cox. Ferraro flunked a 1967 spring trial but came on strong at Spokane in the second half of the Pacific Coast League season. Cox, acquired from Atlanta, hit .297 with 14 homers for the Braves' Richmond farm club in the International League.

Ferraro has been found to be suffering from glaucoma, an eye disease that is incurable but can be controlled. Ferraro will be on medication for the rest of his life but he should be able to continue playing.

After losing shortstop prospects Bobby Murcer and Jerry Kenney to the military in successive years, the Yanks tried vainly to trade for either Luis Aparicio or Zoilo Versalles last winter. They finally picked up Gene Michael, a light-hitting glove man, from Los Angeles. He'll likely start ahead of Amaro, who can fill in at all infield positions.

Rookie Frank Fernandez, .235 at Syracuse, is slated to divide the catching job with Gibbs.

The pitching should be deeper than last year, when southpaw Al Downing came into his own with a 14-10 mark and Mel Stottlemyre, a 20-game loser in 1966, rebounded to 15-15. They didn't get too much help, except from reliever Dooley Womack, who had 16 saves and a 2.41 earned run average, and mid-season pickup Bill Monbouquette, who was 6-5 with a 2.33 ERA.

Braves Top Mets

Atlanta rookie Ron Reed scattered four hits through seven innings and reliever Claude Raymond completed a seven-hit, 2-0 victory for the Braves over the New York Mets, who have been blanked twice in a row and six times.

The Indians' B squad peppered Ken Holtzman for six runs in five innings and ripped the Chicago Cubs 9-2 while the White Sox edged Oakland 4-3 on Rich Severson's RBI single in the 10th inning.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Stan Mikita and the St. Louis Blues have won the final skirmishes of the National Hockey League's longest season.

Thursday night, an all-out war of attrition begins on four NHL fronts—with Mikita and the Blues in the front lines.

Chicago's Mikita struck for his 40th goal and two assists Sunday night in the Black Hawks' 5-5 regular season-closing deadlock with Detroit and captured the individual scoring title for the fourth time in five years.

The Blues, meanwhile, trimmed Minnesota 5-3 and beat out the North Stars for third place in the West Division—the last spot up for grabs in the expanded 12-team circuit.

In other season finales, New York topped Montreal's East Division champs 4-2; Pittsburgh flattened Philadelphia's expansion West Division titlists 5-1 and Toronto downed Boston 4-1.

Sets Up Pairings
Sunday's action brought the curtain down on the 74-game regular schedule and set up the following pairings for Thursday night's openers in the Stanley Cup playoff quarter-finals:

East Division—Boston at Montreal; Chicago at New York.

West Division—St. Louis at Philadelphia; Minnesota at Los Angeles.

Mikita, whose 97 points last season matched the all-time record set by teammate Bobby Hull in 1965-66, finished with 87 Sunday night, staying off late challenges by Boston's Phil Esposito and Detroit marvel Gordie Howe.

Esposito scored his 38th goal in Sunday night's loss to Toronto and took runner-up honors with 84 points. Howe, who celebrated his 40th birthday in the last game of his 22nd NHL season, settled for a single assist and wound up third with 82 points.

The scoring crown will net Mikita a $1,000 league bonus.

New York's two-goal margin over the Canadiens gave Rangers goalie Ed Giacomin a $250 prize for the best goals-against mark in the second half of the season. Montreal's Rogation Vachon and Gump Worsley had nailed the Vezina Trophy with the lowest over-all yield and had a one-goal second half edge over Giacomin going into the game. But Phil Goyette and Camille Henry beat Vachon in the third period, enabling Giacomin to nip the Montreal duo by one goal as the second place Rangers completed their finest season in the last 10, four points behind the pennant-winning Canadiens.

Weekend Sweep
Third period goals by Frank St. Marseille, Red Berenson and Terry Crisp carried St. Louis past Minnesota for a weekend sweep over the North Stars. The Blues finished with 70 points, one more than Minnesota, two less than second place Los Angeles and three off Philadelphia's pace.

Goalie Bruce Gamble kicked out 45 Boston shots as the Maple Leafs, out of the playoff money for the first time in 10 years, spoiled the Bruins' finale and thwarted Esposito's bid for the scoring championship.

Fox Valley Club Opens Thursday

KAUKAUNA — The Fox Valley Golf Club, located just north of Kaukauna, will officially open for the season Thursday, according to Bob Derus, president. It is the earliest opening date in the club's history.

Hahn's Women's Loop Elects New Officers

Gen Seemann has been elected president of the Hahn's Women's Bowling League for the 1968-69 season.

Other officers include Millie Olson, vice-president; Shirley Ardell, treasurer; Agnes Jansen, sergeant at arms and Sally Wegner, secretary.

The league will close this season's play Thursday and the annual banquet and awarding of prize money is slated for April 18 at the American Legion Clubhouse.

Tennis Compromise Britain Will Stage 4 Open Meets in 1968

PARIS (AP) — The world's for permission to stage four tennis rulers gave Britain per-opens—apparently after private mission Sunday to stage a maxi-talks with delegates of other countries.

Many countries are opposed to an unrestricted number of open events because they fear that would give professional promoters too much influence in the world game.

The management committee of the International Lawn Tennis Federation approved these tournaments being thrown open to professionals and amateurs: British Hard Courts Championships at Bournemouth, April 22-27; Kent Championships at Beckenham, June 10-15; London Championships at Queen's Club, June 17-22; Wimbledon, June 24-July 7.

Britain's victory Saturday, when the ILTF agreed to open tennis after nine years of stubborn opposition, proved to be only a half-victory.

The British Lawn Tennis Association took the law into its own hands five months ago and said all British tournaments would be open. It wanted to entice the world's top pros to about eight or nine events.

Now the British have compromised and agreed to a restricted number of open tournaments. The ILTF left it to its management committee to decide how many.

Basil Reay, secretary of the ILTF, said the committee had dropped the idea of allotting a definite number of open events each year. Instead each tournament would be considered on its merits.

The British delegation applied

Air Force 1 Might be Death Trap

WASHINGTON (AP) — An organization of people who frequently travel on commercial flights say the presidential plane—Air Force One—may be a flying death trap.

William A. Jennings, aviation safety director of the Airline Pilots' Association, told a House Commerce subcommittee recently his group is willing to pay for a study to determine whether the presidential jet has toxic cabin materials that would make a potential death trap in fire.

He said hydrogen cyanide—the same gas used in death chambers—is generated in fatal amounts when certain acrylic materials are ignited. These materials are often in rugs, seats and other interior appointments, Jennings said.

The association, which claims 12,000 members, contends the safety on commercial planes is threatened until the government requires use of nontoxic materials.

Yankee, Met Groundskeepers May Strike for Wage Hike

NEW YORK (AP) — Media-tor Vincent D. McDonnell moved Saturday to avoid a threatened strike by stadium groundskeepers and cleaners that could imperil the home baseball openers of the New York Mets and New York Yankees.

McDonnell, chairman of the New York State Mediation Board, asked his executive secretary, Meyer Drucker, to arrange a meeting "not later than the middle of the week" between representatives of the Building Service Employees Union and management of Shea Stadium and Yankee Stadium.

The union has threatened to strike the ball parks if its demands for wage increases and welfare provisions are not met.

Phone Worker Strike Looms

Appleton Local Joins In Nationwide Rejection of Contract

Some 200 Wisconsin Telephone Company employees in the Appleton office may join a nationwide strike against the Bell Telephone System April 12, if contract negotiations fail.

The bargaining committee of the Communications Workers of America Local 5521, AFL-CIO, in Appleton Saturday rejected the firm's most recent contract offer which was similar to those rejected at other Bell operating companies.

Contracts expired Sunday but, Richard Van Sistine, Appleton office manager, said he expected they would be "extended on a day-to-day basis." He said he felt there was still time to discuss contract differences.

Local 5521 will meet at The Forester, at 8 p.m. Tuesday to determine whether to adopt the April 12 strike deadline. Eugene Van Ryzin, president, said union members include all repairmen and installation men, and switchboard operators.

The last nationwide strike by the industrial union was in 1947, and Appleton union members joined the effort.

Seymour Boy Injured When Struck by Car

Charles Hornick 'Satisfactory' at Kaukauna Hospital

A seven-year-old rural Seymour boy is listed in satisfactory condition today at Kaukauna Community Hospital where he was taken Saturday afternoon after being struck by a car.

Outagamie County police said that Charles Hornick, route 3, was struck by a car driven by Robert J. Ciesielsky, 27, 408 N. Main St., Seymour. The accident occurred on Outagamie County Trunk Y, 2 1/2 miles east of Seymour.

The boy reportedly suffered a fractured right leg and abrasions and lacerations to his face. Police said the car was southbound on Y and struck the boy when he ran across the road from east to west. He was taken to the hospital by a Seymour ambulance.

Bruises Ribs

John F. Rusch, 21, route 3, Appleton, suffered bruised ribs when the car in which he was a passenger struck an embankment Saturday night along Balsam Road, just east of Outagamie County Trunk FF, eight miles northwest of Shiocton.

Rusch, who was taken to New London Clinic for treatment, was in a car driven by Willard L. Greely, 23, route 1, Shiocton, who told police he had pulled out of a driveway and was watching geese flying overhead when his car ran into a ditch and struck the embankment. The front of the 1966 auto was damaged.

Theodore J. Breese, 27, route 2, Kaukauna, suffered minor injuries Saturday afternoon when his car ran into the rear of a car on Outagamie County Trunk E, just south of the French Road, in the Town of Freedom.

Police said that Breese was northbound when he ran into the rear of a car driven by Edward G. Vandenberg, 66, Freedom, who had stopped to drop off a fireman. Police said there was a fire in the area.

Mrs. Muriel Nelson, a member of the orthopedic staff of Highlands School, was honored by a grateful community Thursday night for her work with handicapped boys and girls.

The Appleton teacher, recently honored for her work by the Association for Special Class Teachers and Parents, Inc., was presented with a framed citation by William C. Carey, PTA president.

Bearing the official City of Appleton seal signatures of Mayor George Buckley, Council President John Ayers and School Board President Charles Buchanan, it cited Mrs. Nelson for "her outstanding service in working with handicapped children in the community."

The surprise presentation preceded a talk by Dr. Curtis Tarr, Lawrence University president and chairman of the legislative task force studying local government in Wisconsin.

Drivers Unhurt In Two Crashes

WAUPACA — Two drivers escaped injury early Saturday morning in single-car accidents.

About 2:30 a.m. Patrick J. Peskie, 21, route 1, Amherst, lost control of his car and struck a sign post causing an estimated $250 damage. The mishap occurred three miles west of here on State 54.

Peskie told police he was traveling west when he swerved to miss a dog in the roadway and struck the sign.

A utility pole, stop sign, fire sign and guard posts were broken off about 4 a.m. on State 49 about a mile north of here by a pickup truck driven by Wayne R. Smith, route 4, Waupaca.

Smith told police he fell asleep while driving north. After hitting the pole and posts the pickup truck traveled 134 feet before coming to a stop. The 1968 model truck received extensive damage.

Johnson Says He Won't Run

An Editorial

'I Shall Not Seek and I Will Not Accept—'

President Johnson's unexpected announcement that he would not seek or accept the nomination of his party for another term in the White House is only one of many political surprises this unusual spring.

Governor Romney's withdrawal before a single primary. Senator McCarthy's strong showing in New Hampshire, the twin decisions of Senator Kennedy to run and of Governor Rockefeller not to, all have kept the American public off its political balance the last few weeks.

But the President's decision could have far greater impact than all the rest put together.

He had been completely unable to get great support for his conduct of the war in Asia or efforts to solve domestic problems. There was instead a dangerous rumbling of violence and revolutionary efforts to change those policies outside of the democratic process.

Whatever his motives for not seeking the presidency, President Johnson may have come close to uniting the nation behind a sincere search for an honorable end to the war if such unity is not sought at the cost of humiliating political foes.

Perhaps for the first time on television, the President's deep and real concern for the directions of the nation came across to the people. And this time it would be well for the leaders in Hanoi to listen to the silence of the bombing pause.

There is no doubt about it — President Johnson's speech on Sunday might well go down in history.

State Primary Loses Contest

McCarthy Vows Strong Challenge To Kennedy After Tuesday Voting

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — President Johnson has suddenly stripped Wisconsin's presidential primary of its feature contest, and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy vowed today an all-out effort in campaigns ahead—with Sen. Robert F. Kennedy the rival.

Wisconsin votes Tuesday. But with Johnson out of the race for the Democratic presidential nomination, McCarthy said the voters of other states must register the choice, "a different choice," now.

Indiana, Nebraska, Oregon and California will be the testing grounds, the Minnesota senator said. In those states, McCarthy and Kennedy, a powerful contender with parallel views on Vietnam, meet head on in primaries.

Hard Campaign

McCarthy said he will wage those campaigns "as thoroughly and as hard and as effectively as I can."

Johnson's startling announcement that he would neither seek nor accept renomination left McCarthy with only a withdrawn opponent to test his White House prospects in the Wisconsin race.

Out of the contest for the nomination, Johnson is still on the ballot. And his supporters said they would continue an effort to turn out votes for him.

McCarthy, who blazed the trail of opposition to the President in New Hampshire's lead-off primary, said he will forge ahead with his campaign and plans no major changes.

He has already mapped a tentative schedule which will have him campaigning for 15 of the first 22 days in April, devoting much of his attention to the states in which he and Kennedy will contest primaries.

President Removes Politics From Effort to Reach Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Lyndon B. Johnson told a stunned America Sunday night that "I shall not seek and I will not accept" nomination for another term in the White House. He later said his decision was "completely irrevocable."

The President voiced his emotion-racked pronouncement in a television-radio address to the nation. Then he met with newsmen in the White House living quarters and sought to dispel any suspicion that he might change his mind or succumb to a draft. To do this, he used the phrase "completely irrevocable." Left unanswered was the question of whether Johnson might try to influence the choice of his successor as Democratic standard-bearer. But his words, taken at face value, suggested a hands-off attitude.

Also up in the air were the plans of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who might join Sens. Robert F. Kennedy of New York and Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota in the 1968 Democratic sweepstakes.

Stunning Move

A man of many surprises, Johnson's announcement was his most stunning move in a 37-year career in politics. No president eligible to succeed himself has spurned a fight for the office since Harry S. Truman bowed out in 1952 during the controversial Korean War.

Johnson attributed his decision—which aides said was a year in the making—to controversies rending the nation at this time, including the Vietnam war.

"There is division in the American house now," he said in solemn tones. "There is divisiveness among us all tonight."

Then, after appealing to all Americans "to guard against divisiveness and all its ugly consequences," he came to the key passages:

'Awesome Duties'

"... I have concluded that I should not permit the presidency to become involved in the partisan divisions that are developing in this political year. "With America's sons in the fields far away, with America's future under challenge right here at home, with our hopes and the world's hopes for peace in the balance every day, I do not believe that I should devote an hour or a day of my time to any personal partisan causes or to any duties other than the awesome duties of this office—"

Flies to Chicago

President Makes Plea for 'Reason'

CHICAGO (AP) — In his first public appearance since bowing out of 1968 politics, President Johnson voiced a plea today that reason and responsibility prevail "among all the frenzy and emotion of an election year."

Johnson flew to Chicago with the little advance notice to address the annual convention of the National Association of Broadcasters. In his prepared text Johnson said this season is a time of debate and enlightenment, and "at its worst it is a period of frenzy."

The Chief Executive warned that "the basic hope of a democracy is that somehow — among all the frenzy and the emotion — reason will prevail."

Men, Money, Myth of Camelot

Kennedy Has the Edge

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., emerges as the leading contender for the Democratic presidential nomination after President Johnson's world-rebounding announcement that he will not seek renomination.

The mathematics of politics ordinarily would assure Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., the uncringing challenger of the President's expected bid for a second elective term, top place among the contenders for the vacated prize.

But in the emotional year of 1968, the men, the money and the myth of Camelot are all on Kennedy's side. McCarthy will get a satisfying boost by winning Wisconsin's presidential primary Tuesday after the President's default.

But once the balloting is over, some Wisconsin leaders of the Johnson and McCarthy organizations may swing quickly to Kennedy.

The Minnesota senator is spending all that comes in on winning primaries while Kennedy's unlimited financial resources are pointed at the selection of delegates at state conventions, where the nomination demonstratedly is won or lost.

McCarthy and Kennedy will face their first countdown at the ballot box on May 7 in Indiana, where the voters are reputed to be considerably more conservative than either.

Vietnamese army with more modern weapons. —Ambassador-at-Large W. Averell Harriman will be the President's personal representative at any peace talks that develop with North Vietnam—"at Geneva or any other suitable place."

Johnson also appealed anew for higher taxes and budget cuts to pare a deficit he said would otherwise be about $20 billion. He said these actions are vital because "we face the sharpest financial threat in the post war era—a threat to the American dollar's role as the keystone of international trade and finance."

Unilateral De-escalation Halt Ordered in Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has ordered a halt in U.S. bombing of most of North Vietnam in a sudden new bid to de-escalate the war in Southeast Asia and get peace talks started in the immediate future.

"I call upon President Ho Chi Minh," Johnson said in announcing his action Sunday night, "to respond positively and favorably, to this new step toward peace."

He did not say how long the limited cessation of attacks would continue if Ho does not respond favorably. He did say the bomb halt, covering "almost 90 per cent" of North Vietnam's population, could be made complete if Ho would now demonstrate "restraint."

'Genuine Peace'

The President called on Britain and the Soviet Union "to do all they can to move... toward genuine peace in Southeast Asia." Officials said those two governments—co-chairmen of the Geneva Conferences—could play key roles in arranging talks. They were notified shortly in advance of Johnson's announcement, and the South Vietnamese government was consulted, officials indicated.

But these informants said no advance assurance of responsive action was obtained from North Vietnam, which presumably was notified by the Soviets.

The move apparently involved some concession in the earlier U.S. position that for bombing Hanoi would have directly threatens allied forces to indicate a willingness to de-escalate by leveling off its infiltration of men and supplies into South Vietnam.

Some Concession

However, to accept the President's proposal Hanoi would have to make some concessions.

Priority will be given to re-equipping the growing South peace officials disclosed today.

The administration is planning a three-phase call-up of military reserve forces which would involve the mobilization of around 60,000 men in the coming months.

months.

Bulletin

WASHINGTON (AP) — De-

for entering peace talks has been that the United States must stop all bombing of the North unconditionally and definitively.

Johnson made clear that air strikes would continue against enemy forces building up in the Southern area of North Vietnam against Khe Sanh and other U.S. and allied positions in the northern border region of South Vietnam.

But he said these strikes also "could come to an early end" if North Vietnam would impose "restraint" on its operations.

The President put his proposal this way:

"We are prepared to move immediately toward peace through negotiations. So tonight, in the hope that this action will lead to early talks, I am taking the first step to de-escalate the conflict."

'Make No Attacks'

"Tonight, I have ordered our aircraft and our naval vessels to make no attacks on North Vietnam, except in the area north of the demilitarized zone where the continuing enemy buildup directly threatens allied forces to indicate a willingness to de-escalate by leveling off its infiltration of men and supplies into South Vietnam."

Some Concession

However, to accept the President's proposal Hanoi would have to make some concessions.

President Johnson appears in the White House Sunday before announcing he will not seek or accept nomination for another term as president.

Supreme Court Decision One-Man, One-Vote Rule Extended to All Local Governments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today put local government under its one-man, one-vote rule.

The historic 5-3 decision extends the rule to an estimated 80,000 units of local government throughout the land.

One of the dissenters, John M. Harlan, said the decision was "both unjustifiable and ill-advised."

Justice Byron R. White gave the decision in a case from Midland County, Tex., where Mayor Hank Avery of Midland City asked that the county governing body be apportioned on a population basis.

'Right to a Vote'

The landmark finding came in these words by White: "We hold that petitioner (Avery) as a resident of Midland County has a right to a vote for the Commissioners Court of substantial equal weight to the vote of every other resident."

The ruling extends a step taken by the court four years ago in interpreting the mandate of the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment to the Constitution.

It is that in elections for Congress and for state legislatures districts must be drawn so that the vote of citizens is substantially equal in weight.

"The question now before us," said White, "is whether the 14th Amendment likewise forbids the election of local government officials from districts of disparate size. As has almost every court which has addressed itself to this question, we hold that it does."

Agam, White wrote: "It is now beyond question that a state's political subdivisions must comply with the 14th Amendment. The actions of local government are the actions of the state."

"A city, town, or county may no more deny the equal protection of the laws than it may abridge freedom of speech, establish an official religion, arno attacks around the principal populated areas, or in the food-producing areas of North Vietnam."

The President did not link his new peace offensive with his bombshell announcement removing himself from the presidential election race. But there was immediate Washington speculation that Ho Chi Minh might do so.

Better Terms

The question was whether Ho—if he is interested in negotiations at all—would expect to get better peace terms from a new administration than from the outgoing President.

Johnson based his partial bombing halt and his peace bid on the so-called San Antonio formula, which he announced in a speech at San Antonio, Texas, last September. Previously he had sent it to Hanoi through diplomatic channels in August.

He said then he would stop the bombing of North Vietnam if se-

Fire Destroys Wendler Barn Near Wittenberg

WITTENBERG — Fire of undetermined origin Friday destroyed the 36 by 60 foot hip roof barn on the Roland Wendler farm, about 3 1/2 miles south of Wittenberg on State 153.

The fire, which reportedly started in the hay mow, was discovered by the Wendlers while they were doing chores Thursday night.

About 30 head of cattle and a tractor was saved. However, another tractor, 40 tons of hay and several pieces of farm machinery were lost.

The Wittenberg Volunteer Fire Department prevented the blaze from spreading to the Wendler home and other buildings. The barn reportedly was covered by insurance.

Another blaze Friday destroyed a granary at the Adon Falstad farm, four miles south of Wittenberg on Waupaca County Trunk M. Firemen faced a strong wind in fighting the blaze.

The fire reportedly started when sparks from a maple cooking shack flew to the granary.

The blaze spread in the grass and threatened other buildings and also neighboring farm buildings owned by Lee Wolf. The fire department made a second run into the village for extra water before the blaze was brought under control.

Confused on Effect

Both Party's Stunned By Johnson Bombshell

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY

Post-Crescent Staff Writer
Fox Cities Democrats and Republicans were stunned but had mixed reactions today to President Johnson's bombshell announcement he will not seek or accept his party's nomination in 1968.

"I couldn't believe it," exclaimed Mrs. Marilyn Taylor, 59, Bellaire Ct., chairman of the Outagamie County Democratic Party and head of the Johnson for President Committee.

"When I heard the president's statement last night I didn't know what to think at first," she added.

Mrs. Taylor was one of several leaders and active members of both parties — and boosters of presidential candidates — interviewed by The Post-Crescent.

Telephone Calls

"I received telephone calls far into the night from other party members and Johnson supporters who also expressed disbelief," Mrs. Taylor commented.

Asked what the general reaction was from those she talked to, Mrs. Taylor added her feeling also when she declared, "Most people feel that President Johnson put the welfare of the country and peace above his own political future."

Mrs. Taylor said she felt President Johnson had given "a great speech."

She thought it could bring the North Vietnamese to the peace table and that President Johnson would unify the country.

McCarthy Hurt

At one time Mrs. Taylor was a member of the National Concerned Democrats — a group originally formed to press for a war de-escalation—but she resigned when it became a tool to dump Johnson.

What effect Johnson's move will have on Richard Nixon's GOP presidential drive Mrs. Taylor could not speculate.

However, on the other side of the political fence it was Mrs. Taylor's opinion that chances of U. S. Senator Eugene McCarthy for the Democratic Party had been hurt.

Mrs. Taylor thought U. S. Senator Robert Kennedy benefited most and would "probably emerge the winner."

Humphrey Looks Good

But Mrs. Taylor, when reminded that Vice President Hubert Humphrey has been considered heir to the Democratic throne, commented, "I would say Mr. Humphrey looks very good at this time."

Mrs. Taylor said this morning she had not heard from Richard Cudrhy, Milwaukee chairman of the Wisconsin Democratic Party and the head of the state Johnson for President Committee.

Primary Vote

In her capacity as county Democratic Party chairman, Mrs. Taylor said in an official statement:

"President Johnson will be devoting all of his time to our country and to show that we, as Americans support him in this endeavor, I would urge Wisconsin citizens to give the President an overwhelming vote at the polls Tuesday."

Another long-time Democrat and co-chairman of the McCarthy for President Committee in Outagamie County took an altogether different view of the Johnson decision.

"I am very happy he's decided not to run," declared Les

Badger Co-op District Picks Director Nominee At Wittenberg Meeting

WITTENBERG — Consolidated Badger Cooperative members nominated Arthur Fenske Friday night for a directors post to be elected at the annual meeting April 20 at Shawano.

The post was vacated by Arthur Day who is seeking a seat on the Wisconsin Assembly. Reports at the district meeting here showed the co-op had a record volume of business in 1967 totaling more than $44 million. Reports were given by Neil McBeath, A. W. Gast, Clyde Brunner and Frank Meyers, all of Shawano.

Dennis Wolf, route 1, Wittenberg, was elected to represent the district on the resolutions committee.

Delegates appointed to attend the annual meeting were Richard Seefeldt, route 1, Eland, and George Konkle, route 1, Wittenberg. Alternate is Arthur Peterson, route 1, Eland.

Balliet, 515 W. Fifth St., who is also a former county Democratic Party chairman.

Decision Forced

"I think his (Johnson's) decision was forced by both McCarthy and Kennedy," Balliet said.

"Johnson knew he was going to get a real beating in the Wisconsin primary and figures now was the time to get out," Balliet said.

He said the Johnson move for peace was not acceptable to him, adding that the President should have ceased all the bombing. Balliet, who in the past has declared his public dislike for the President, said he thought the President's peace move represented "only half a gesture."

Balliet said Johnson's dropout helped the candidacy of Senator McCarthy but wouldn't venture a guess on how much.

Hard to Say

He conceded it also might benefit Senator Kennedy.

"It's hard to say what will happen between McCarthy and Kennedy in the race," Balliet declared. "I'd say it's a toss-up."

"Nixon has been hurt most," Balliet continued. "He is a hawk just like Johnson."

Balliet said he felt the people were "fed up with war and are clamoring for peace."

He added that if peace were achieved, then the country could concentrate on solving its domestic problems.

"I think it was President Johnson's finest hour," commented Dr. David Grunwaldt, Kaukauna, chairman of the Outagamie County Republican Party.

"At first I couldn't believe it when I heard the President's words," Dr. Grunwaldt said. He felt the President was sincere in the action he took.

No Cross-Over

At the same time, Dr. Grunwaldt cautioned that Republicans in the county should not attempt to engage in any cross-over voting in Tuesday's primary.

"A cross-over would demonstrate nothing," Dr. Grunwaldt added.

Dr. Grunwaldt said the Johnson withdrawal would probably strengthen the position of Nixon in capturing the GOP presidential nomination.

He declined to comment on what he thought might happen to McCarthy and Kennedy. "That's up to the Democrats to decide," Dr. Grunwaldt said.

War Policy

Dr. Grunwaldt said Nixon would be making a major war policy address and did not think the GOP frontrunner's Vietnam War stance was parallel with that of the President's as has been suggested during the campaigning.

Arnold E. Grummer, 63 Bellaire Court, chairman of the County Nixon for President Committee, said he was "extremely surprised and had not anticipated" the President's taking himself out of the political picture.

"I would say the action has probably added confusion to already confused issue," Grummer declared.

Nixon Helped

On Nixon, it was Grummer's opinion his candidacy would not be affected one way or the other. Grummer felt Johnson's action would reduce the cross-over vote Tuesday.

Commenting on the compromise bombing halt, Grummer said it would help Nixon's position because he would now be left with a smaller area to concentrate on.

He noted that the U.S. had bombing pauses in the past.

It was Grummer's feeling that President Johnson acted wisely in general, and responded to heavy anti-war and political pressures.

Congressmen Split On LBJ Decision

BY FRANCES MC KUSICK

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Two prominent Wisconsin congressmen disagreed on the effect President Johnson's announcement he will not to run would have on the legislative picture for this year. Eighth Dist. Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, said he hoped "the President will now be able to do what he could not do as a candidate in a split party."

Mr. Johnson will now be able to take the hard steps which are needed to solve our country's critical problems," Byrnes said. "One of the first things he will be able to do is put our fiscal policy in order by submitting a new austerity budget to replace the political one he gave the Congress in January."

On the other side, 7th Dist. Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Marshfield, chairman of the House Republican Conference, said that as a "lame-duck" president, Johnson would have more difficulty correcting the country's major problems, which are securing peace in Vietnam and cutting government expenditures to a minimum.

Rep. William A. Steiger, R-Oshkosh, said that he was extremely surprised the President made the withdrawal announcement at this time.

Open Letter to the Voters of Appleton

Two years ago, George Buckley promised the people of Appleton that, if elected Mayor, he would bend every effort to give Appleton leadership, direction, and economical government. He was elected. Since that time, we have made solid progress. Mayor Buckley has renewed industry's confidence in Appleton to the point where it is now moving in, not out — meaning growth, jobs, and additional revenue.

Mayor Buckley has been a credit to our community. He has let the chips fall where they may in an effort to give us the leadership that he promised in his campaign two years ago. My hat is off to any man who will go straight down the road and fight to make his promises good.

Two years ago we dumped a lot of problems in Mayor Buckley's lap. The previous administration had committed us to Appleton East High School, College Avenue redevelopment, and Soldier's Square parking ramp to name a few. These problems and others were met head on. As a result of this leadership, we presently have more harmony in the City Council and with the County Board than we have had in many years.

I also support Mayor Buckley's approach to education. Hire the most competent educators, pay them well, and give them good down-to-earth schools to teach in. An education loses much effect if we obligate ourselves and our children to paying for it for the rest of our lives.

When the 1968-1972 term begins, we will have a "clean house" at City Hall. No issues have been side-tracked and none have been railroaded through for political expediency during election time.

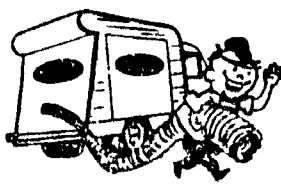

Mayor Buckley has kept his word to the people of Appleton. I appreciate progressive, economical, no nonsense city government and am supporting George Buckley at the polls on Tuesday. I hope that you will too.
